Georgia Levy On Employers Ruled Illegal

'Common Control' Phase Of Unemployment Tax Law Rejected.

An estimated $750,000 in unemployment compensation taxes will be refunded to Georgia employers falling within the "common control" provision of the unemployment compensation law which, in effect, was held unconstitutional yesterday under a ruling of the United States supreme court, J. E. B. Stewart, director of the State Unemployment Compensation Bureau, said.

The high tribunal refused to review a decision of the Georgia supreme court barring the state from treating two or more firms under the same ownership or control as a single unit in determining whether there were sufficient employees to warrant the collection of unemployment compensation assessments.

Hulet Is Away.

In the absence of Labor Commissioner Ben T. Hulet, who is in New Orleans attending the convention of the American Federation of Labor, Stewart said he presumed the refunds would be made as soon as investigations can be completed to determine what employers are affected.

Stewart said several large oil companies operating service stations would be affected, as well as sawmill operators, barber and beauty shop operators and similar firms. He estimated that as many as 10,000 workers would come under the ruling.

Since the Georgia unemployment compensation law was passed in 1937, the state bureau has been requiring "common control" employers to pay unemployment compensation taxes. Under the law an employer of as many as eight persons must pay such taxes. Up to this time it has been interpreted to mean, for example, that if a man operated a barber shop with four employees and his wife operated a beauty shop with four employees, the two businesses would be lumped together and be required to pay the necessary taxes.

Charged as Losses.

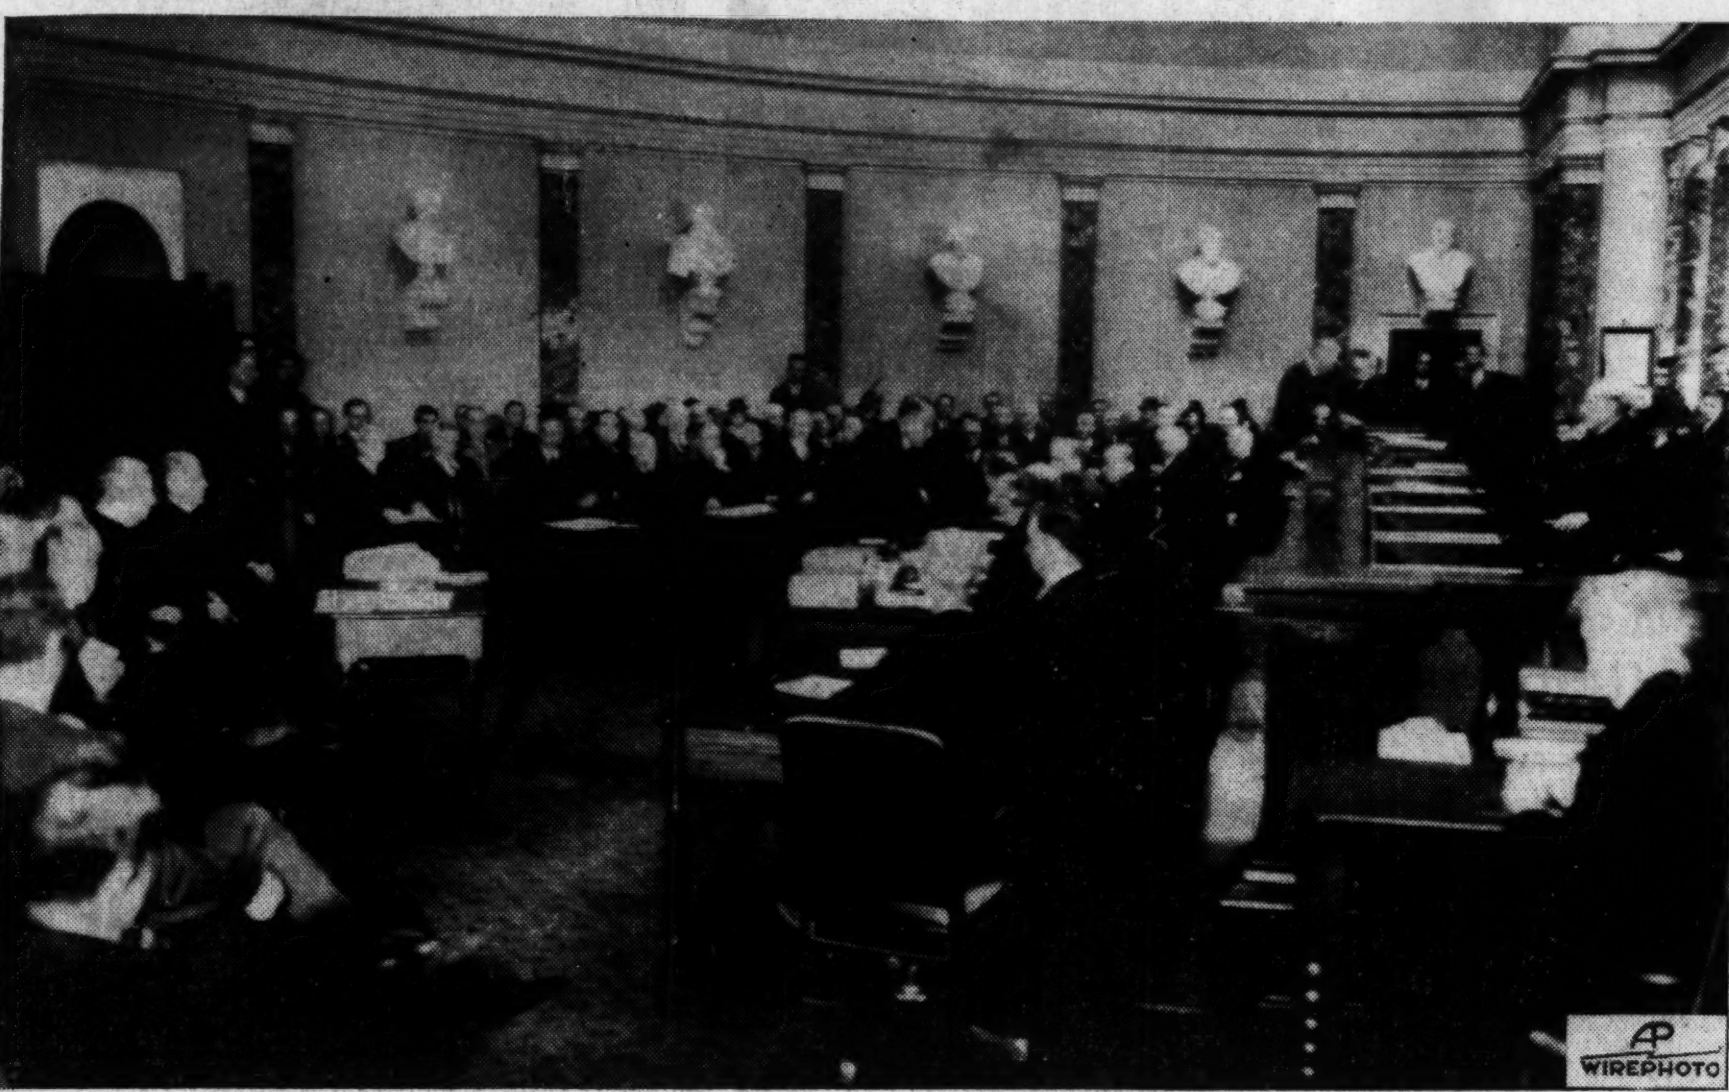

During the period since the Georgia law was enacted, Stewart pointed out that some employees under the common control arrangement might have become unemployed and received their benefits, and that such payments would be charged up as losses to the bureau.

Stewart explained that several firms had been filing a protest with each payment of taxes.

He said a thorough investigation would be made of individual cases before refunds are approved. The effect of the United States supreme court decision, Stewart said, was to uphold the state supreme court, but pointed out the administration of unemployment compensation programs in 32 other states also would be affected.

SENATE IN ANTE-BELLUM SETTING—The United States senate met in the old supreme court chamber yesterday for the first time in 81 years so that repairs on the roof over its regular capitol meeting place could be started. The old court chamber, also located in the capitol building, was the regular senate meeting place until January 4, 1859. Senator William

King, of Utah, is shown at right on bench as he presides. In center, Barkley, majority leader, leans over table. Scarcely a quorum was present. (Story on Page 9).

Cox Leads Solons Demanding Defense Strikes Be Outlawed

Two California Legislators Attribute Labor Trouble in Their State to Organized Program Led by the Communists.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Possible legislation to curb strikes in defense industries was discussed by members of the judiciary committee today after an hour's house session devoted almost exclusively to critical comment on work stoppages in plants having Army and Navy orders.

T. P. Duckett, Merchant, Is Critically Shot

Former Store Owner Found With Wound in Head.

Thomas P. Duckett, 47, Atlanta merchant and former operator of Duckett's Army Store, was in a critical condition at Grady hospital last night with a bullet wound in his head.

He was found yesterday afternoon in the ninth floor lavatory of the Medical Arts building by Dr. R. W. Powell.

Fastened to a belt loop on his trousers were two notes—one written to Coroner Paul Donehoo, which said "this is my own act" and the other to H. M. Patterson & Son, Atlanta funeral directors, which gave details for burial.

In his coat pocket was found another letter to his wife, contents of which were not divulged.

When found he was holding a new .38-caliber revolver in his right hand.

Police said the bullet entered his right temple, just above the ear and came out on the left side. Duckett resides at 1687 South Gordon street.

Record Motor Fuel Tax Is Paid by Georgians

Georgians paid a record $2,115,520 in motor fuel taxes last month, the State Department of Revenue reported yesterday.

This was $3,365 more than the state collected on the 6-cent-a-gallon levy in any previous month. It compared with $1,994,867 in September and $1,830,773 in October of last year.

Chairman Sumners, Democrat, Texas, and a half dozen other members met informally to talk over the question. Afterward, Sumners said he had called a meeting of the committee for tomorrow to "go over the whole situation."

"He said it was possible that the committee might ask congress to enact legislation to outlaw defense strikes."

The house discussion was touched off by Representative Cox, Democrat, Georgia, who demanded that congress "outlaw all strikes against the government."

Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia, said "let's do something about it," and Sumners declared that persons responsible for strikes should be given "a double dose" of the "kind of violence they understand."

Representative Ford, Republican, California, attributed California strikes to "the program of Communism by the CIO," and Representative Costello, Democrat, California, said the spread of strikes in his state "looks like an organized program."

Cox declared that "the most shameful thing that has happened to this country in a long time is the strikes that are now in progress against the government," and the next most shameful thing is adjournment of congress from day to day without doing anything about it.

Demanding to know why Democratic leaders said there was no business to transact "while there is the sabotage of the defense program," Cox asserted that "labor racketeers" were responsible for current strikes.

"How much longer must the codding of this vermin be tolerated?" he asked. "How much longer must it go on before this congress or somebody rises up to do something about it?"

Ice Paralyzes Panhandle as Floods Rage

Amarillo, City of 50,000, Without Water; Fires Feared.

(Picture on Page 2.)

DALLAS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Ice paralyzed the Texas panhandle and parts of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas today at the same time flash floods swept away homes, farm buildings and livestock in other parts of the state. Icebound Amarillo, a city of 50,000, was without water and was menaced by the constant threat of fire.

A broadcast by short-wave radio—the only means of communication with the outside—reported electrical power was restored to some portions of the city late today after all wires had been down almost 24 hours.

Debris was littered over the city streets. Telephone and telegraph lines were down over 16 northwestern Texas counties and in portions of adjacent states.

Five Texas rivers, the Sabine, Trinity, Brazos, Colorado and Guadalupe, were on rampages.

Whole families sought safety in tree tops as flash floods swept away homes, farm buildings, livestock and poultry.

Red Cross workers were ordered from Houston to the flood area around Sealy, Texas, where trapped farmers before dawn fired distress guns to guide rescuing boatmen.

Coast guard boats and equipment were ordered 100 miles inland from Galveston to aid in rescue work.

Bridges were damaged and 1,000 motorists were marooned at Conroe, where 21 inches of rain had fallen.

Twenty-three major state and federal roads were closed or partly closed by high water.

Still it rained. The tri-state area of Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas around Texarkana and Shreveport was deluged.

As the rain fell, ground temperatures remained slightly below 32 degrees, freezing the water as fast as it fell. As the storm continued, the ice formations became heavier, pulling down wires, poles and clogging highways.

RUMANIA SEIZES 38. BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Police announced tonight the seizure of 38 "foreigners" in Rumanian oil regions, the first of 200 persons blacklisted as dangerous to the security of the oil fields.

Bulgaria To Stay Out of Axis; Hitler, Stalin Believed at Odds

Sofia Reports Reds and Nazis at Odds Over Spheres of Influence in Balkans; Berlin Hints Diplomatic Maneuvers Will Continue.

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Bulgaria, long viewed as a likely convert to the Axis lineup, is staying out, for the present at least, informed Nazi sources indicated today.

This disclosure came with the surprise statement by these informants that the signatures of Hungary, Rumania and Slovakia to the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo pact ended the present series of additions.

Authorized quarters hinted, nevertheless, that Adolf Hitler's diplomatic maneuvers, which already have covered most of the continent, will continue.

"When will the next act be staged?" one official was asked, and he retorted: "Just be patient."

They added that the fact Bulgaria is not expected to join up at this time has nothing to do with developments in Turkey.

Official circles in Sofia, Bulgarian capital, expressed belief the Balkan kingdom had won a "breathing spell" in its struggle against being rushed into aligning with the Axis.

There was unqualified relief in Sofia, where a high government official's reaction was that "it now appears certain to us Bulgaria will not be involved in war this winter."

Reds, Nazis Divided. Diplomatic circles in Sofia saw in the developments an indication that Hitler and Joseph Stalin do not see eye to eye on division of German and Russian spheres of influence.

(King Boris and Premier Bogdan Filoff late today received Soviet Minister Lavrentiev and M. Sobolev, secretary general of the Soviet commissariat of foreign affairs, the United Press reported from Sofia.)

(Informal quarters believed the German announcement that Bulgarian statesmen were not expected in Berlin soon was connected with this visit.

Purvan Draganoff, Bulgarian minister to Berlin, arrived here by train tonight, apparently recalled to report developments on the German diplomatic front.)

The Bulgarian argument against joining the Axis was believed generally to have been inspired by the Russians, who were represented as still not willing to concede that all the Balkans belong in Germany's lebensraum (living space).

Greeks, in Captured Tanks, Shoot Down Unsuspecting Foe

Tribal Chief Issues Orders; Buried Weapons Dug Up To Help Battle Retreating Invaders.

By The United Press.

ATHENS, Nov. 25.—British warplanes tonight disrupted three separate motor transports and mule columns rushing reinforcements to a hard-pressed Italian force in the northern front after Greeks, using captured Fascist tanks as modern "Trojan horses," reportedly seized Madik, farthest point they have penetrated into Albania.

The Greeks in their captured tanks completely surprised the Italians who took them for their own.

Meanwhile the fierce Albanian tribe of Melisores struck at the Fascists from the rear and forced Italian batteries from the north bank of the Devoli river.

By this maneuver, the Albanian tribesmen, whose hereditary chieftain issued orders to "throw off the Italian yoke," opened a wide breach in the Italians' new "Sodu Line" from Lake Ohrida south along the Devoli river.

The Melisores, largest, fiercest fighting tribe in Albania, never had formally accepted the Italians and they now are reported digging up buried weapons to help the Greeks.

This famous tribe inhabit the wild country between the Devoli and Shkumbi river valleys and is said to be harassing the Italian troops from the rear. The Melisores are expected to help greatly the Greek frontal attack against Italian positions along the north bank of the swiftly-running, deep-gorged Devoli river.

On the coastal front the Greeks were said still to be advancing. It was believed that the Italians were preparing to defend Argirocastron, which lies in a narrow gorge between formidable mountain heights.

Italians Blast Passes. Greek scouts reported tonight that Italian engineers had dynamited several of the narrow passes converging on Argirocastron and formed barricades with fallen rocks, indicating that the Italians have received orders to hold the city, which is the gateway to the Italian base and key town of Tepelini.

Once the life-line to Tepelini is cut by Greek flying columns the fall of Argirocastron is believed assured. There were reports that Italian planes had evacuated the flying field on the wide plain beyond the town. This was supported by the fact that Allied planes today bombed Tepelini and Argirocastron, unhampered by Fascist fighters.

7,000 Captured. A RAF communique said that "important military stores and large motor transport columns were successfully attacked in the Tepelini area."

It was reliably estimated that thus far 7,000 Italian soldiers have been captured by the Greeks.

The Greeks were said still to be advancing toward Sante Quaranti but a Greek spokesman denied knowledge that the Italians had abandoned the port as reported abroad.

18 Tanks Captured. The Greeks captured eight howitzers, 18 tanks and more than 100 military trucks in the ravines around Moscopode. This town and Pogradec were said to have been occupied.

The captured tanks were made the spearhead of attacks against isolated Italian units attempting to protect the rear of their retreating main forces.

When these tanks rumbled into Madik the Italian defenders welcomed them as their own. The Greek gunners opened a murderous fire which killed and wounded many of the garrison and forced the rest to retire to the gendarmerie headquarters. This soon became untenable as the Greeks battered down its walls with their modern "Trojan horses" and mopped up the town.

The Athens radio predicted that "in all probability the entire Italian army in Albania will be encircled."

"Throw Italians Into Sea."

On the Epirus front capital of Janina, which so recently was threatened by invading Italian columns, Greek warplanes flew over and dropped leaflets and orders of the day to the soldiers which read:

"Fight on until we throw the Italians into the sea. It is better to live hours as free men than years in prison as slaves."

Italian forces were retreating from Elbasan, 35 miles northwest of Pogradec and 22 miles south-east of the Albanian capital of Tirana, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch.

The dispatches also reported the Italians were retreating in the southern and central sectors, deeper into the Albanian mountain regions.

Danger of Flood. All roads leading into the interior of Albania are littered with abandoned material, seriously delaying the Fascist retirement, the Exchange Telegraph said.

A new danger also was said to be threatening the Italians in the north, the agency said. According to its reports, the Shkumbi river, running from Elbasan to the Adriatic, appeared likely to overflow its banks because of heavy rains.

Hero York in Dilemma As Draft Board Leader JAMESTOWN, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Sergeant Alvin C. York, chairman of the Fentress county draft board, was in a dilemma today—what to do about 38 boys clamoring to get in the army.

State selective service headquarters, he said, gave his county a six-month quota of two men "and we have 40 boys wanting to go for a year of training."

York, who single-handedly captured 132 German troops, was described by General John P. Pershing as America's greatest civilian soldier in the World War.

State Economy Keynote Seen For Talmadge

Criticism of Highway Bureau Expected in Inaugural Speech.

By LUKE GREENE.
Political observers who like to make long-range predictions already are speculating on what Governor-elect Talmadge will have to say in his inaugural address in January.

Of course, a lot of history will be made before the inaugural day. Santa Claus will come and the new year will be ushered in and the war probably will go on. Naturally, it is a bit early for the prognosticators to have anything definite. But there are always those who like to dust off the spy glasses and gaze from afar.

Few believe that the new Governor will take up much time with lambasting the Rivers administration. They think he will do that by action after he gets comfortably settled in the Governor's chair.

The keynote of the address, they generally agree, will be economy. It is thought he will have a great deal to say on this subject, and many state employees may see the gloomy writing on the wall for the first time.

The Highway Department probably will not be slighted in the new executive's remarks.

Not To Fight.
Close associates of W. L. Miller, present chairman of the highway board, say that he will not resign but will make no attempt to fight the Sage of Sugar Creek in the legislature if the Governor attempts to oust him with a reorganization bill.

The chairman is known to harbor notions that he may be left alone, since he has been confirmed until 1943 by the senate. He frequently has pointed out that his ideas on economy for the Highway Department are in line with those of the incoming administration.

The Miller associates say he has been urged to write legislators and solicit their support in a fight to hold the chairmanship, but that he has taken the position he won his battle for reinstatement against Governor Rivers and will remain until he is forced out or his term expires.

George Formally Elected Chairman

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—In keeping with the recommendation last week of the Democratic steering committee, the United States senate today formally elected Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, to the chairmanship of its top-ranking foreign relations committee.

The Georgia senator, who has been serving as acting chairman since the recent death of Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, whom he succeeds, prepared to take over his new duties immediately. One of his first moves will be to occupy the palatial office suite of the foreign relations committee just below the senate chamber on the first floor of the capitol building.

Rivers Seeking Defense Road For Georgia

Governor Will Urge Highway Linking Mil- itary Posts.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Development of a system of great national defense highways to take care of the growing military demands of the nation will be urged upon administration officials this week by Governor Rivers, of Georgia, who arrived here today for that purpose.

Beginning tomorrow the Georgia executive is planning a series of conferences with War Department heads, officials of the Public Roads Administration and various congressional leaders. He is expected also to confer with President Roosevelt while here.

One of the specific projects Governor Rivers intends to recommend calls for a new military defense highway through Georgia and Florida, extending from Atlanta in a line down through the Florida peninsula and linking the several important military posts in the two states.

Governor Rivers was accompanied by Brooks Bateman, member of the Florida State Highway Commission.

Standardized Road Signs Are Studied

Standardization of road signs throughout Georgia is being undertaken, the State Highway Department announced yesterday, simultaneously with the beginning of a survey of state and federal routes.

The department's division of safety and traffic is compiling a manual setting up Georgia's sign standards as near as possible to markers of other states, and will be distributed to division offices, which then would order installation of the standardized markers without consulting state headquarters.

The three-man survey crew began its south Georgia study by leaving Atlanta on U. S. Route 41, it is running to the Florida line. It is inspecting all signs with a view to replacing, repairing and adding signs according to the manual's standards. The next survey for the crew will be U. S. 84 from Valdosta eastward to the intersection of U. S. 17.

Draft Training Is Insufficient, Johnson Says

Calls Conscription 'One of Most Wasteful Bills Ever Enacted.'

DENVER, Nov. 25.—(P)—Calling the conscription act "one of the most wasteful and extravagant measures ever enacted by congress," United States Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, declared tonight that five billion dollars to be spent training draftees for one year would "provide little or no defense."

In a radio address, Senator Johnson said conscription training would be sufficient only to make foot soldiers out of conscripts and observed:

"You cannot stop a 20-ton tank moving 60 miles an hour with a bayonet, nor bring down a bomber five miles in the air with a Springfield rifle."

Senator Johnson contended that conscription training was building the nation's "fourth line" of defense before the first three—in order, the Navy, the Air Corps, and motorized military forces.

Colonel Thomas Sinclair Succumbs in Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 25.—(P)—Colonel Thomas Sinclair, 81, Conservative member of parliament for 17 years, died today.

As a British army surgeon in the World War, Colonel Sinclair officially gave credit to Captain Roy Brown, Canadian aviator, for shooting down the German flying ace, Baron Manfred von Richthofen.

Richthofen's plane crashed after a fight with Brown. Australian infantry also subjected him to ground fire. The Australians claimed Richthofen as their victim, but Colonel Sinclair examined the body and concluded he had been shot down by Brown.

Italians Shot For Retreating, Prisoner Says

Colonel Stood Two Men Against Tree, Lieu- tenant Asserts.

ATHENS, Nov. 25.—(P)—A captured Italian lieutenant's story that two men in his unit were shot by their colonel after the group retreated before the Greeks was told today to an Associated Press correspondent at the front.

The correspondent, sitting in Greek trenches, watched the lieutenant and 21 other Italians surrender.

This minor action took place 10 miles east of Argirocastro, Albania, toward which the Greeks are driving.

Many Killed.
Here is the correspondent's story:

"All during the day, artillery and machinegun fire echoed through numerous valleys in this region and Italian planes flew high overhead."

"The 22 prisoners were remnants of a 60-man unit. All others had been killed."

"Three more Italian companies were holding out on adjoining hills."

"The prisoners I saw taken were driven from their cover by artillery fire originating in the place where I sat. They came out of the bushes, holding their hands above their heads."

Ragged and Hungry.
"They were a sorry sight, ragged and hungry. The lieutenant said they had not eaten in three days."

"I had to surrender to prevent pure slaughter," he said. "Two days ago I asked for reinforcements. They said they would send me some but they never did. Finally I had to abandon the position. We retreated. The colonel in command a little behind the line shot two of us for it—just put them up against a tree and shot them. He turned us back with hand grenades and guns. We had no automatic weapons. We were outnumbered and outgunned."

Italians Unwilling To Fight.
"What I have seen today confirms that the Greeks are fighting like lions while the Italians, unwilling to give battle, are fleeing or surrendering all along the front."

"Stories of booty left behind are not exaggerated. The amount is so great it literally clogs the roads. I counted as many as 23 Italian trucks, seven or eight tanks and motorcycles and bicycles by the hundreds over a distance of 30 miles."

"There is no regular front. The soldiers stay at their posts night and day. They eat and sleep where they are."

Italian Army Is Sabotaged By Albanians

Wounded 'Rebel' Says However, Open Revolt Is Impossible.

SALONIKA, Nov. 25.—(P)—A 25-year-old Albanian who was wounded in guiding Greek troops through the Koritza sector declared today his countrymen had adopted "passive resistance" to hamper Italian operations against Greece.

"Open revolt is impossible because the Italians took arms from every Albanian house months ago," declared Ceinal Bay Ram at a hospital where he is recovering from a leg wound.

"The Italians did not mobilize us or make us fight because they were afraid the guns they would give us would be used against them," Bay Ram said, adding that only a few hundred fought with the Italians.

He said Albanians did what they could "to sabotage the Italian war machine."

"At the start of the war, the Italians took everything—horses, chickens and cows included."

Greek sources declared that an Albanian major who had deserted the Italian army had gathered other Albanian deserters and was leading a strong guerrilla campaign against the Fascist forces.

U. S. Job-Buying Trial Postponed

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 25.—Trial of Harry Graves, publisher of the Tri-County Advertiser, of Clarksville, in federal district court, Gainesville division, on charges of soliciting or offering money for procurement of U. S. postal service jobs, scheduled to begin Wednesday, has been reset for Monday, December 9, by Judge Robert L. Russell.

Similar cases against J. H. Holcomb and his son, Hulon E. Holcomb, of Ball Ground, and Paul Grogan, of Ball Ground, are to be heard in the Atlanta division of the court, the indictments having been returned in Cherokee county.

Also set for the week of December 9 is another action which will command wide attention, that against John (Jack) Reynolds, secretary-treasurer of the Best Manufacturing Company here, the indictments charging production of goods in violation of the fair labor standards act, maintaining records, and the illegal shipment of said goods in interstate commerce.

German, Italian Captives Fight Over Nazi Sneers

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The Newfoundland government was obliged today to separate interned German and Italian soldiers because of fights caused by German sneers at their Axis partner's war efforts.

The Italians resented slighting remarks about the invasion of Greece and Jibes by the Germans at the Catholic religion, it was reported, and fights often resulted.

Allen, Peters Confer With F. D. R. Today

Offer of Talmadge's Co- operation Expected To Be Made.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Ivan Allen Sr., of Atlanta, and James S. Peters, of Manchester, Ga., manager of the Georgia State Roosevelt campaign and chairman of the Georgia State Democratic committee, respectively, will confer with President Roosevelt at the White House tomorrow at the White House.

While no advance information was available here today, it was believed Allen and Peters intend to offer the President the co-operation of the forces of Governor-elect Talmadge. The Governor-elect's son, Herman Talmadge, who served as his father's campaign manager, recently visited the White House on a similar mission.

Representative Robert Ramo, of Atlanta, arranged the conference, but does not plan to participate.

'Pure Gossip,' Perkins Says Of Resignation

No Idea What Future Holds for Her, Secretary Asserts.

By HAROLD MARTIN.
Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins wishes people would not put pieces in the paper about her handing in her resignation without first asking her if she had done so.

Secretary Perkins, who passed through Atlanta early last night en route to New Orleans, cited a White House statement and described reports that she had resigned as "pure gossip."

The White House statement came after the New York Times had quoted "authoritative sources" as saying Miss Perkins had told close friends that she had given her resignation to the President and that it had been accepted.

"I was available in Washington until past midnight if the paper had wished to check the story with me," she said, adding, "The Times has not previously been a gossip sheet."

Pressed as to future plans, Mrs. Perkins said that she never planned more than three days in advance, and had no idea what the future held for her.

Speaking of the labor field in general, she said that the strike of the aircraft workers at the Vultee plant in California probably would be settled very soon.

"It requires only careful handling," she said, pointing out that the misunderstanding between workers and management seemed to hinge only on the difference between a 50-cent-an-hour and a 62½-cent-an-hour wage.

Press dispatches for several days have said the only issue was a management demand for a two-year ban on walkouts.

The labor picture in general was peaceful, she said, adding that she felt the tremendous industrial expansion of the past nine months had been accomplished with the minimum of labor trouble.

"Why," she said wistfully, "doesn't someone write a story about the strike that didn't happen? Last year 94 per cent of the potential stoppages were averted by quick, intelligent conciliation work."

There seem to be no other strikes in defense industries imminent at the moment, Mrs. Perkins said. Then, with a very human gesture, she knocked on wood.

"Of course," she went on, "one never dares predict what another year may bring forth."

PERKINS TO LEAVE CABINET, SOURCES INSIST.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Highly placed personages insisted tonight that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins will leave President Roosevelt's cabinet, despite assertions to the contrary, but that she will stay in the administration in a less conspicuous, though equally important, capacity.

Both Madame Perkins and the White House today denied reports that she had already resigned or that she had discussed her resignation with Mr. Roosevelt, but the United Press was informed that a tentative arrangement has been made whereby she will step into a new role.

The plan, it was said, is for her to succeed Paul V. McNutt as Federal Security administrator, this to occur when a post "with more limelight" is found for McNutt. The transfer, it was added, will be held in abeyance until McNutt is "taken care of."

According to reports current here, Mr. Roosevelt wants a labor secretary acceptable to the CIO and the AFL. He is anxious for peace between the rival labor factions and it is reported that his choice would have to be "cleared" by both organizations.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, of New York, who has been mentioned for a number of cabinet jobs, is believed persona grata with both groups.

U. S. Labor Told It Can Defeat Nazis

Germans Have Affected England's 'Output,' Briton Reveals.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A British labor leader, appealing for "planes, planes and more planes," today said German bombings have become so intense they are affecting "our output," and added that American labor can defeat Germany "without firing a shot."

Sir Walter Citrine, executive secretary of the British Trades Union Congress, which is a counterpart of the American Federation of Labor, told the AFL convention:

"I say to you something that no British statesman has yet said: Bombing is having an effect upon our output. Speed is of the essence now as never before because our output cannot keep upon full schedule because of the bombings."

The British labor leader, whose position corresponds to that of AFL President William Green, declared:

"How long we can continue depends not merely upon our will but also upon the will to hit back. The only thing the Nazis understand is the power to make them suffer."

There are only 1,000 people in Great Britain with yearly incomes exceeding $50,000, he said, and these people have an annual income approximating $900,000,000 a year.

Through taxes and death benefits, he said, the government takes back $800,000,000 of the $900,000,000 income.

He said: "Out of every five dollars of income of the richest people of our country, $4.37 is taken in taxation."

Meanwhile, the convention voted to raise President William Green's salary from $12,000 to $20,000 annually and that of George Meany, secretary-treasurer, from $10,000 to $18,000.

Reds and Nazis In Every Vital Industry—Dies

Government Weak in Dealing With 5th Columnists, He Says.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Chairman Martin Dies, of the house committee on un-American affairs, charged in a statement today that Communists and Nazis are at work in every important American industry.

The statement, issued through Committee Secretary Robert E. Stripling, invited attention to "a deplorable weakness in our government dealing with Fifth Columnists" and cited in particular Department of Justice knowledge that the Vultee Aircraft Company strike in California "has been prolonged by Communists."

Simultaneously, Dies, from his home at Orange, Texas, made public a telegram he sent to President Roosevelt appealing to him to coordinate the activities of the various departments investigating Fifth Column activities.

The message pointed to "conflict and misunderstanding between the committee and the Departments of State and Justice" and said that "all of us should be working in closest harmony to present a united front during this time of great emergency."

The White House acknowledged receipt of the message, but withheld comment.

Regarding Fifth Column control, Dies' statement said "that weakness lies in the fact that our chief law-enforcement agency (the Department of State and Justice) has for some time that the Vultee strike was called and has been prolonged by Communists, and yet the strike continues with irreparable damage to our national defense."

LONDON, Ont., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two Royal Canadian Air Force men, Leading Aircraftmen Louis Duff, 23, of Montreal, and John Higginbottom, 23, of South Orange, N. J., were killed instantly late today when their training planes collided near here and crashed.

All a Mistake---Church Funds Overlooked by Safe Robber

It was all a mistake. Nobody robbed the safe at the First Methodist church Sunday night. Somebody did break into the church, and then broke into the safe. But apparently they got nothing of value.

The $17 in cash and the $60 worth of checks, donated by the congregation Sunday to buy the Rev. Dr. Edward G. Mackay, pastor, a parking gift, were found late yesterday afternoon when fingerprint experts from the police department shuffled through the papers in the safe. The money was there, and the checks were there.

So now, R. K. Rambo, chairman of a committee which yesterday asked all donors to stop payment on their checks, is asking that they call up the banks and tell them to let the checks go through.

They will please do this today, Rambo urges, for the gift to Dr. Mackay is to be presented Thursday night and it may be purchased sometime today or early Thursday.

Dr. Mackay is leaving the church to become district superintendent of the East Atlanta District of the North Georgia Methodist Church.

RAF Bombers British Plants Rain Havoc on Taking Beating; Nazi Shipyards So Are Nazis'

British Trying To Make Destruction of Naval Docks Complete.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—British bombers shuttled over Hamburg in two attacks last night and early today, dropping "many tons" of explosives and nearly 2,000 incendiaries in a shattering, fiery raid on shipyards where German naval vessels are turned out, the air ministry announced tonight.

In the first raid, between 7 and 8 o'clock last night, several British pilots reported they emptied their bomb racks at the same time and observed "a good number of fires and explosions." At 4 o'clock this morning they were at it again over the vast acreage of the Blohm and Voss shipbuilding yards, by now a frequent target. "The reason for so many raids on this one objective," the air ministry news service explained, "is that no one raid could destroy more than part of the shipyards. Coupled with this raid were others on Harburg where fires and explosions were said to have been set off in the important Nord Deutsche Chemical Works; Wilhelmshaven, where bombs were aimed at the frequently attacked dockyard, and the Dutch port of Den Helder.

Still more British formations blasted the Nazi-held French coast for more than an hour.

(Uneasiness over German activity along the coast of France was reflected in the comment of one spokesman who told the United Press: "We don't know what it portends. We wish we did.")

(Air and naval observers said they had no evidence to support a theory that the week-end bombing of the French coastal ports broke up a German plan to seize Irish naval bases preliminary to undertaking an invasion of Britain.)

British coastal batteries threw a screaming barrage across the channel this morning and tonight.

Britain Scatters Factories, None Wholly Essential, Analysis Shows

(Editor's Note: Assertions that Britain is in a graver plight than is generally realized led the United Press to ask Staff Correspondent Edward W. Beattie Jr. for his analysis of the situation. His dispatch, passed by the British censor, follows.)

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE JR., LONDON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The new German air strategy which has swung the weight of the offensive onto the industrial Midlands has hurt but not crippled the thousand-and-one industrial processes which go to make up the modern war machine.

Nobody outside a few officials knows to what extent industry has been hit, and if he did know he would not be permitted to tell. The consensus in well-informed quarters is that while the damage has been serious, it is not critical. No City Immune.

In the present state of defense against night bombing, no city either in England or Germany is immune. The defenses of the Midlands are stated to be at least as strong, in proportion to the size of the objectives, as those of London—or presumably those of Berlin, Hamburg and the Ruhr.

England as a last resort could move essential industrial production overseas, out of range of present bombers. Without the wholesale transfer of its industrial plant deep into Russia, with the almost insuperable obstacles involved, Germany could not put its factories out of the reach of British bombers operating from bases in England and the Mediterranean.

Two years ago, when the "shadow" system for the munitions industry was first put into effect, there was widespread criticism over the fact that new factories had been built close to old industrial concentrations instead of on isolated sites where they would be hard to find and hit.

Since then there has been improvement in the construction policy. Not only are the new factories scattered but in no case is one factory the sole supplier of any essential weapon or part.

Another factor tending to diminish the shock of German air attacks is the German bombing technique, which relies on a tremendous weight of explosives dropped from a great height over a comparatively wide area to accomplish what the Royal Air Force tries to do by carefully specialized low-level attacks.

According to well-informed air circles in London, the Germans have been flying just as high in the Midlands as they ever did here and in some cases bombed on moonlight nights from 18,000 to 20,000 feet. It is claimed that British attacks on Germany have been carried out from a height of 5,000 to 8,000 feet and occasionally only a few hundred feet, with corresponding dividends in results.

Coventry Took Beating.

Coventry took a worse beating than any town in England in a bombing which was distinguished above all others by its ferocity. Over a comparatively small city, the Germans dropped enough high explosives to create an approximation of Guernica in Spain or Rotterdam in Holland. Although the damage elsewhere outside London has been serious, there is no indication that it was anywhere on a scale proportionate to Coventry.

There are several instances where important factories badly hit in the last few months are now back on schedule or close to it. There are others where the damage at first appeared so great

THEME OF THE TOURNEY—In harmony with the rising patriotism of the people of this nation, "America in Flowers" has been selected as the theme for the 1941 Tournament of Roses to be held in Pasadena New Year's Day. Freshly beautiful as a rose, Miss Jetsy Posthuma, representing "Liberty," made the announcement yesterday in this patriotic and charming fashion.

Britain Has Advantage.

The war in its present stage is as much one of production strangulation as a starvation blockade. No one denies the gravity of the German U-boat and airplane attacks on Atlantic convoys. But the British blockade, it is claimed, is even more serious for Germany. Similarly with the production war. According to the British version, damage to Germany's industrial machine has been much heavier and far more concentrated than anything the Luftwaffe has been able to accomplish in England. Both suffered heavily but England has the advantage of Canadian and other empire production and a growing stream of new planes, guns and shells from the United States.

U. S. To Construct Homes for 6,750

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—With a finding that defense housing needs in 11 communities would not be met by private capital, President Roosevelt authorized the Federal Works Administration today to proceed at once with the construction of homes for 6,750 families.

The work will be financed out of a total of approximately $290,000,000 of federal funds available for such projects. Charles F. Palmer, the defense housing co-ordinator, announced the President's finding and also disclosed the appointment of Philip Norton, of Los Angeles, and Morton Bodfish, of Chicago, to encourage expansion of private enterprise in the housing field.

Nye Requests U.S. Probe of British Wealth

Says He Doesn't Believe England Is Near Financial Crisis.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, today introduced a resolution calling for an investigation by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee of British credit resources in this country, including British property holdings.

Nye declared that he believed the groundwork was being laid to "open avenues of credit to Great Britain" and said that "we should jealously guard against taking that step until it has been definitely ascertained that Great Britain is coming to the end of her financial rope."

He expressed the belief that an investigation would disclose this was not the case and that the British "have now just begun to draw on their resources here."

Germans Give London Quiet Dinner Hour

Capital Has Only One Brief Air Alarm During Day.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Accustomed to evening air raids, London enjoyed an undisturbed dinner hour tonight and up until 9 o'clock had not heard the scream of an alarm.

The empire capital had one brief alert period around midday but, it was officially said, the raiders got no nearer than the outskirts of the city.

(Berlin authorities said bad weather hindered day attacks on England.)

Two planes were reported downed. The air ministry said one was shot down out of small bomber formations.

A Dornier 17 bomber crashed and burned on a southwest coast field while limping home. It was said, from the raid last night on a west coast town. Four members of the crew bailed out and were captured. The fifth was believed lost in the charred wreckage. The airmen all are between 18 and 20 years of age.

(Berlin reports said the raid was carried out by almost continuous relays of bombers. Many residents were attending church services when the raid started. They remained at the churches for six hours, singing hymns while the bombs crashed.)

(Berlin reports said the town was Bristol, important English port.)

Suppress World Empire Dreamers, Catt Warns

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, 81-year-old veteran of the Woman Suffrage movement, said tonight that "perhaps what we most need is an international mothers' gestapo whose business it will be to hunt out the world empire dreamers in infancy and use a spanking machine on them."

"Millions and millions of men are lying in their graves, sent there by the wicked power of men who dreamed of empire," she said in an address prepared for the Woman's Centennial Congress.

"Whatever you plan for the future, in the name of peace, remember that your work will be useless unless you provide the means for suppressing every man who dreams of empire."

De Gaulle Back In London for War Parley

Confers With Churchill Over Situation on African Front.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—General Charles de Gaulle, leader of "free French" forces, returned to London today and conferred with Prime Minister Churchill on the war in Africa.

De Gaulle's headquarters issued a communique saying he "wanted to examine with the British government various political and military problems in connection with the war, after having organized the administration and forces of French Equatorial Africa and the Cameroons who have decided to carry on the war against Germany and Italy, and after having completed the rallying of Gabon."

Later de Gaulle declared in a broadcast to the French people that the Greek successes, the RAF's blow at Taranto and developments in Libya, Egypt and Ethiopia should make the French grateful that they had been "deprived of a glorious part in the eventual victory."

The French air force and navy, intact at the time of the "armistice betrayal," could have played a paramount part in these actions, he said.

General Weygand IN FRENCH MOROCCO TANGIER, Nov. 25.—(AP)—General Maxime Weygand, in charge of French African possessions, arrived at Oujda, French Morocco, by plane today, conferred with General Vergez, commander of French troops in the colony, then proceeded to Taza for a review of troops.

(General Weygand was last reported in Algeria. It was said that he had refused orders to return to France, but Vichy denied this, along with a denial of speculation concerning possible disaffection on Weygand's part.)

Andrews New Northern Irish Prime Minister

Successor to Lord Craigavon Also Opposes Union Proposals.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 25.—(P)—John Miller Andrews, 69-year-old deputy prime minister of Northern Ireland, was elevated to prime minister today to succeed Viscount Craigavon, who died unexpectedly last night.

Lord Craigavon, bitter foe of proposals for union of Southern Ireland (Ulster), had been the first and only prime minister since the Ulster government was formed in 1921.

Andrews has also opposed union proposals, but some observers expressed belief there now might be a remote possibility of a stronger move for unification.

Prompt action is necessary in replying to the attractive offers in the Want Ad section of The Constitution.

CRIME SCHOOL—Law enforcement officers from throughout this section started back to school yesterday as Fulton county opened its new training course for policemen, taught by FBI men, or local officers who have graduated from a similar course. Left to right are J. W. Williams, veteran Fulton county officer; Dr. Charles R. Adams, county commissioner, who presided at the first session, and Paul E. Dowis, of the Fulton police force, graduate of the school, who will serve as an instructor.

Preacher Paid For Education By Playing Ball

Rev. C. Pierce Harris Returns to North Georgia Conference.

By Dr. THOS. M. ELLIOTT.
Back in 1917 two Methodist preachers journeyed for two days across the state of Georgia to reach LaGrange, where one of them was to join the North Georgia Methodist conference. The conference applicant was the Rev. C. Pierce Harris, just assigned to the pastorate of the Atlanta First Methodist church. The other preacher was "Bill" Watkins, as his fellow pastors called him. Today we call him Bishop Watkins.

Mr. Harris now comes back to his first love, after spending some years in the South Georgia conference and the Florida conference. While in this conference he served pastorates as follows: Chickamauga circuit, Chickamauga station, Buford, Dalton First church. The Columbus St. Luke church was his South Georgia pastorate, and the Jacksonville Riverside church his pastorate in Florida. At each place he stayed six years, with the exception of the Dalton church.

Ministry Popular.
Evangelistic preaching is the characteristic type of Mr. Harris' sermons. A fluent speaker, full of human interest, his ministry has been highly popular at all places. More than 100 revivals have been conducted by him, and more than 4,000 people have been received into the church through his ministry. At the Jacksonville Riverside Park church he has received more than 1,000 persons into the membership. Great congregations are said to have attended, with many turned away every Sunday.

Mr. Harris went to school at Reinhardt College and was graduated in the class of 1913. He finished at Emory University with the class of 1918. He financed his college career by playing baseball in the summer. For a time he was connected with the Chattanooga Lookouts. Sold to the Detroit Tigers on a contract that called for $7,600 a year, he turned it down, and began preaching the gospel to country churches. In his baseball days Mr. Harris also helped finance his wife's college expenses.

Plays Golf.
Preacher Harris no mean golf player, although he says his present type of architecture is not contributory to efficient golfing. He plays about twice a week. He has 77 trophies as tokens of his skill in that sport.

Mrs. Harris was Miss Madge Smith. Their one daughter is Mrs. Burden Henderson. The 15-month-old grandson is named Pierce Harris Henderson. Mr. Harris' father was the late Rev. S. A. Harris, for 44 years a member of the North Georgia conference.

It is predicted that Mr. Harris' ministry at the Atlanta First church will prove another milestone in his great ministerial career.

Injuries Are Fatal To Laurens Man

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.

DUBLIN, Ga., Nov. 25.—Olen Couey, 38, Laurens county farmer, died in a hospital here early today from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile as he walked along a road near his home several miles south of here late yesterday.

Sheriff I. F. Coleman reported the automobile was driven by Festus Edge, a neighbor of Couey's, and that it apparently was an unavoidable accident. No charges were preferred against Edge.

Surviving are three brothers, Claud and Olen Couey, of Dublin, and Loye Couey of Fort Benning.

150 Officers Attend Police School Here

Project Declared Most Important Step in Law Enforcement.

Approximately 150 officers from 12 law enforcement agencies in this area started "back to school" yesterday as the new Fulton county police training school was launched by federal, state and county officials.

Termed "the most important step forward in local law enforcement history," the school will continue through March 2. Night and day classes will be held on the first four days of each week.

The classes, for the most part, will be conducted by FBI agents who have specialized in certain phases of crime detection and law enforcement.

E. C. Dorris, of the Washington office of the FBI, is in charge of instruction during the first week. Judges of the criminal division of the courts and their solicitors will lecture on courtroom procedure as an added feature.

The students — police officers, deputy sheriffs and deputy marshals of law enforcement agencies in this territory — were welcomed by R. G. Danner, agent in charge of the FBI office in Atlanta, and several other officials who praised the formation of the school and offered full co-operation.

They included County Police Chief George Mathieson; M. A. Hornsby, chief of the Atlanta police department; Judge Jesse Wood; Captain Dave Simmons, of the Georgia State Patrol; Bond Almand, solicitor, criminal court of Fulton county; Judge John D. Humphries; Jere Wells, county superintendent of schools, and Sheriff J. C. "Mott" Aldredge.

Paul Dowis, a member of the county police force, and a graduate of the Washington FBI school, is in charge of the school.

Agencies co-operating include county and city police departments, sheriff's office, civil court of Fulton county, solicitor general's office, probation office, East Point, College Park and Hapeville police departments; Fire Prevention Bureau, Georgia State Patrol, Decatur and Avondale police departments.

Nazi, Italian Ships Still in Mexican Port

Loading Activity Ceases After U. S. Warships Are Seen.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 25.—(P)—Three German and nine Italian freighters were lying quietly in the Panuco river and Tampico harbor late today with no further evidence of loading activity such as was reported last night. Observers had been led to believe that activity presaged a spectacular wholesale dash to sea similar to that of November 15 when one German ship was scuttled by its crew.

While the 12 ships were loading last night Tampico observers reported seeing three United States destroyers on neutrality patrol a few miles offshore. This afternoon, however, the office of the Tampico port captain said no warships of any nationality were visible from the harbor lookouts.

The port captain's office also said that none of the German or Italian ships had applied for clearance papers and that their radios remained sealed.

There was no explanation why activity aboard the freighters ceased.

THE CONSTITUTION...for Records the Largest Gain
Of Any Newspaper in the Another Distinction for Atlanta and

WHAT THIS RECORD MEANS TO CONSTITUTION READERS

NEWs of the world, news of your nation, news of your state, news of your home town—these things come first in a newspaper like your Constitution. But it is nowadays commonly recognized that advertising also is news—you have learned to depend on the advertising columns of your newspaper to provide you with more news and better news about buying; you want your newspaper to be a comprehensive guide to well-considered use of the family budget.

The Constitution is giving you this PLUS—this buying news—in increasing abundance. For the first ten months of 1940, The Constitution gave you over 670 pages more of retail advertising than it gave you in the same period of 1939—the largest retail advertising increase of any newspaper in the whole United States!

More and more advertisers are recognizing the great responsiveness of The Constitution readers—more and more they are sensing the fact that you depend on this paper for local and world-wide news, for authoritative, impartial opinion and journalistic entertainment. They know that your Constitution gives you record-breaking value, that you can and do rely upon this Georgia-owned, Georgia-edited newspaper which once more demonstrates it has the full and proven confidence of its ever-growing army of reader-friends.

*For This Newest Mark of Recognition
We Are Grateful to Our Readers and Advertisers*

We wish to let you know that the Atlanta Constitution, Morning and Sunday, with a gain of 1,615,586 lines has the largest gain in Retail Advertising for the first ten months of 1940 over the same period in 1939 of any newspaper in the country which we measure.

Sincerely yours,
MEDIA RECORDS, INC.

In Editorial Progress, Too,

The Constitution Leads the Way

670 Added Pages!

This amazing growth in retail advertising means that you, as a reader of The Constitution, have had 670 more PAGES of retail advertising to guide your daily purchases in the past ten months than you had in the same period of 1939. Such growth is your assurance of a newspaper that is always steadily improving in EVERY phase of its activity and obligation to its readers.

A host of editorial improvements have greeted Constitution readers during the same ten months in which this outstanding advertising record was made. Here are just a few of these new and valuable factors in making The Constitution more readable, more instructive, more entertaining:

★ A 25 per cent increase in the editorial staff, including the addition of such popular favorites as Dudley Glass, Georgia columnist whose rare humor is a by-word throughout the state.

★ THIS WEEK Magazine on Sundays, with its always-fascinating collection of fiction and fact.

★ Associated Press Wirephoto and a larger local photographic staff, bringing you more and better pictures than ever before in Constitution history.

★ A sensationally well-received Fashion Page for Women each Sunday.

★ Special Food Section on Fridays, with a solid page of carefully edited food news.

★ An added page of daily comics, giving you daily two pages of the nation's favorite humor and adventure strips.

★ New, more easily-read type for headlines, to increase your pleasure in reading by making it easier on your eyes.

And many more . . . to assist The Constitution in maintaining its reputation as a well-rounded, well-grounded newspaper for all the family.

Marines Hunt For Explosives At Navy Yard

Police Aid Them in Searching Thousands of Workers.

BOSTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A bomb scare kept Boston navy yard on the alert for more than 12 hours today as thousands of job-bound civilian workers were searched at the gates and scores of police and United States marines poked through private automobiles.

Hours after the hunt for explosives began, police reported nothing of a suspicious nature had been uncovered and navy officials began to regard their warning of trouble as a hoax.

The unwonted activity at the yard—the scene of two recent small fires—began before daybreak when an unidentified official called on Boston police for help in searching day shift workmen arriving at 7 a. m. As quoted by Captain Bernard Graham, night police superintendent, the official said:

Information has been received from a most authoritative source that an attempt would be made at 7 a. m. by a navy yard workman to bring in a time bomb or a quantity of dynamite when he went to work."

HOW ABOUT ME, MR. DAVID?—Atlanta girls took matters into their own hands yesterday—and Mr. Charles David, talent scout for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. They seek movie careers. He seeks potential stars. Six Convicted In Fulton Are Given Pardons Offenses of Men, Woman Range From Lottery to Manslaughter.

Five men and one woman convicted in Fulton county of offenses ranging from lottery to manslaughter and carrying sentences of from four months to 20 years have been granted pardons by Governor Rivers, according to records filed yesterday with the clerk of Fulton superior court.

Pardons were granted to those listed as:

Mrs. Bernice Carithers, former trained nurse, who served one year of a 2-to-5-year sentence for forgery.

William H. Jennings, former Americus (Ga.) youth, who was convicted in September, 1939, of killing his wife, Olive, in their Juniper street apartment and sentenced to serve from 19 to 20 years.

Harry Simpson, who had served four years of a 10-year sentence for attempted murder.

Howard Johnson, who was convicted in May, 1937, of robbery and sentenced to serve from 7 to 12 years.

Ered Hunter, who served one month of a four months' lottery sentence.

John Moreland, who did not serve a day of his 12-month lottery sentence and jumped a $1,000 appeal bond when his conviction was affirmed.

Moreland's pardon was granted on the condition that he pay a $50 fine and the document said he had a wife and mother-in-law to support and would be given a job with a firm for which he had worked 18 years.

Jennings' pardon was recommended by Judge W. M. Harper, of the Southeastern judicial circuit, and O. F. Tarver, Dougherty county sheriff.

Mrs. Carithers' pardon was recommended by Fulton county jail officials and it was stated she has been promised a nursing job in Florida.

Johnson was termed a "model prisoner" and clemency was recommended by A. N. Wabb, warden of Lakeland camp.

Here's Real Relief for NOSES THAT CLOG, DRY UP AFTER DARK

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE
How much better you feel—when you clear nose of transient congestion at bedtime with Va-tro-nol!

Va-tro-nol does 3 important things: (1) shrinks swollen membranes; (2) soothes irritation; (3) helps flush nasal passages, clearing clogging mucus, relieving transient congestion. It makes breathing easier, invites sleep.

If a cold threatens, Va-tro-nol used at first sniffle or sneeze helps prevent colds developing.

from 1 until 10 o'clock which takes in both your hours for interviews. Can't I come down about noon some day?"

The answer was yes.

That is a sample of the enthusiasm of these Atlanta and Georgia mothers over possible movie careers for darling daughters. It makes no difference that the talent crew announced 17 and 27, inclusive, were the age limits. Twelve and 14-year-old girls swarmed through the lobby of the hotel yesterday trying to corner David for an advance interview. Women who must have been more than 27 were there, too.

Each day through Sunday, 2 to 4 o'clock and 7 to 9 o'clock, this interviewing will continue. Then the best of the applicants will be asked to compete for screen tests. All the tests will be sent to Hollywood. But, the girl making the best test in the judgment of the camera crew, will be the guest of Vivien Leigh at the anniversary premiere of "Gone With the Wind" December 12 at Loew's Grand, which is being held as a benefit for the British War Relief. This girl also will get an all-expense tour to Hollywood.

No contract with the movie company is promised though.

Council Votes To Seek CAB Airport Funds

$1,085,000 Project To Be Requested Under Defense Program

City council moved unanimously to obtain municipal airport improvements amounting to $1,085,000 as a part of the defense program and at the same time took steps to expedite the reopening of Courtland street entrance to the municipal auditorium.

It voted to petition the Civil Aeronautics Board for the airport improvements after Jack Gray, manager of the airport, told council members that the resolution is intended to speed up grading, runway lighting and paving improvements for the field, and that the cost to the city should be nominal under the defense program.

Fulton county commissioners were asked to construct a road into the newly acquired 140 acres adjoining the airport. Under the resolution, the roadway will be between Harrison road and Whipple avenue, and will give ingress and egress to the acreage which will be developed for runway extensions and the construction of a new east and west runway.

Hartsfield and other city officials are expected to visit Washington the latter part of the week in an effort to accelerate approval of the city's application for the airport funds.

Mayor Hartsfield spoke in behalf of a resolution empowering Charlie J. Bowen, building inspector, to raze damaged portions of the front portion of the auditorium to enable the city to open Courtland street from Edgewood avenue to Gilmer street.

The stretch has been closed since the Armistice night fire, which razed the front of the auditorium. Hartsfield urged council to act immediately, citing the increase of traffic congestion due to Christmas shopping and stressing the necessity for establishing the normal flow in that area.

By NORMAN CHANDLER
Chairman, Newspaper Publishers Committee

ONLY the weight of public opinion keeps you free in America.

Think of that for a moment. If some Hitler or Stalin or Mussolini could only control your opinion, he could enslave you without any force. That is the way Hitler conquered Germany. He controlled the press.

He told people only his side. He told it over and over. Finally, because they had nothing else on which to base their opinions, they all came to agree with him.

Don't make the mistake of believing that he forced people to agree with him. True, his supporters put a handful of people in concentration camps. But the great mass of people were and are his supporters. They goose-step for him, give up necessities for him. They are dying for him by the tens of thousands.

You, in America, get all sides of all questions. You get the facts, plus the opinions of all leaders, delivered to you in your daily newspaper.

When you have the facts, you invariably support the right men, the right laws, the right ways of life.

NOTE: The purpose of these regular Tuesday institutional advertisements is to make American life and American business better. Your suggestions, criticisms or reactions will be appreciated by the Newspaper Publishers Committee and its chairman. Address the committee in care of the Business Office of this paper.

This right of yours to have the facts is the key to freedom. Defend that right—not for the sake of any newspaper but for your own sake.

Sometimes you hear a critic say that American newspapers have "too much influence." It is not the newspapers that have influence, it is the news—the knowledge, the information, the accurate facts which they bring you.

Your newspaper equips you to have influence. It fits you to dictate the kind of government you prefer.

And there is another reason why your newspaper keeps you free.

A man can be enslaved politically, but he can also be enslaved economically.

You have heard of "company stores" at a mine or on a plantation where, by charging high prices and offering only a limited supply of goods, the "company" kept its workers broke.

Look through the paper you are now reading. Notice the advertisements and the news about the things you need or want to buy.

The newspaper's advertising columns are open to the makers and sellers of every legitimate product. When a man builds a better electric iron or packs a better can of beans or makes a fortunate purchase of dry goods, he tells you about it.

Here, in these columns, you can compare values, learn of new things, new uses. You thus equip yourself to know when, where and how to get the most for your money.

When a dictator wants to enslave a group of people, all he needs to do is take away its news sources. Shut off its newspapers and the news broadcasts which the papers largely supply to the radio stations. Then let him take away the people's right and capacity to judge values, and the job is complete.

At the first faint whisper of an attack upon your right to have all the news of all kinds, good and bad, about people and events, about products and services, let me urge you to act. It isn't our freedom as publishers that I am worrying about. It is your freedom and mine, as citizens.

Draft Boards Are Completing Classifications

Men Who Will Be in First Call Are Being Selected.

Local draft boards yesterday were completing the classification of volunteers and low-order-number registrants who have returned selective service questionnaires and sifting out those who are eligible for the first calls.

Only volunteers who are placed in Class 1, because of the answers they give on the eight-page questionnaire forms, will be considered for induction into the army at the December call.

Only boards 3, 4, 9, 11 and 13 in Fulton county and boards 1 and 2 in DeKalb county have been asked to furnish men from this section in the first draft order. These seven units will send up 44 volunteers beginning December 3. Just who these men will be depends upon the results of classification and physical examinations which are being given this week to the top men.

Meanwhile, the 214th coast artillery, anti-aircraft, was mobilized yesterday with headquarters at Washington, Ga. Most of the 1,500 Georgia guardsmen in the unit will remain at their homes until December 3 when they move to Camp Stewart, near Hinesville.

This leaves only the 179th field artillery, the 193d tank battalion and the 101st coast artillery separate battalions in the Georgia National Guard. The 179th will go to Camp Blanding, Fla., and the 193d will go to Fort Benning on January 6 and the 101st will leave for Camp Stewart on January 13.

11 Georgians On Committees Of the Legion

National Body's Appointments Announced by Pat Kelly.

Eleven Georgians have been placed on national committees of the American Legion, Pat Kelly, member of the executive committee, announced yesterday upon his return from a meeting of the committee in Indianapolis, Ind.

Atlanta's on the list are Arthur Chesham, advisory committee of the rehabilitation committee; Eric Coker, co-ordinating committee of the national defense committee for the Fourth Corps Area; Jackson P. Dick, distinguished guest committee, and M. A. (Bugs) O'Connor, veterans' employment committee.

Others receiving national recognition are Edgar B. Dunlap, of Gainesville, finance committee; Jake L. Storey, of Rome, three-year term area liaison on rehabilitation; Mrs. T. I. Dixon, of Americus, national child welfare committee; Scott Candler, of Decatur, Legion publications committee; General Peter C. Harris, a native Georgian now in Washington, director of education of war orphans; J. M. Clark, of Thomasville, law and order committee, and John R. Fawcett, of Savannah, veterans' preference committee.

Book Committee Honors Librarian

Ruth Hinman Carter, Atlanta librarian and literary authority, has been named a member of the National Book Awards Committee as the Southeastern representative, according to an announcement made by Miss Virginia Kirkus, of New York, chairman of the national committee.

The committee, which functions under the American Booksellers' Association, is composed of 10 leaders in the field of books from New York and the northeast, one from the west coast, one from Texas, and several from other parts of the country.

The committee will vote on the following classifications for awards, which will be made in January: "Favorite Novel," "Favorite Non-Fiction" and "The Booksellers' Discovery" which is to be a book in the voter's opinion that has not received the audience it deserved. All books receiving votes must be 1940 publications, but not necessarily by American authors.

Reiner To Speak At High Museum

Jan Reiner, Czech-Slovakian architect, who now lives in Chicago, will speak at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow night at the High Museum of Art on "From Pyramid to Skyscraper." The lecture will be illustrated. Atlanta is one of the many cities throughout the country which has been visited by Reiner since coming to the United States.

Reiner will describe the "modernist" movement in industrial design, in architecture, and plastic arts. He has expressed a belief that out of the wars of Europe will come a renaissance in modern architecture.

179TH ADOPTS "ORPHANS"—No, First Sergeant Lemuel T. Holley has not gone to the dogs. The dogs have come to First Sergeant Holley. Seven Puppies Are 'Adopted' By Guard Unit

May Be Made Mascots and Taken to Camp Blanding.

Companies A, B, C, D, E, F and Headquarters have moved into the uncompleted armory building now being erected near the military department on Confederate avenue.

They moved into the draft quarters about two weeks ago, but only yesterday reached a sufficient maturity to be photographed and interviewed. As members of the 179th Field Artillery, the seven puppies will leave January 6 for Camp Blanding, Fla.

Perhaps at this point it should be said that Companies A, B, C, D, E, F and Headquarters are the cutest black, white and brown puppies ever abandoned by their mother within crying distance of the new armory.

They were discovered two weeks ago by Colonel Sion B. Hawkins, executive officer of the regiment, as he made a tour of inspection over the new National Guard area. They were lying, cold and wet, in a gully in the woods.

Within two shakes of the colonel's spurs, the seven puppies were transported to a room in the new armory. A kennel was built and Sergeant W. A. Wells was placed in command.

Plans are the puppies will be distributed among the seven units of the 179th Field Artillery, commissioned as mascots and serve a year's hitch in the army when this Atlanta National Guard unit leaves for its training period.

Italian Political Circles Approve Pope's Homily

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(P)—The Rome radio broadcast today the following comment on the homily delivered by Pope Pius XII Sunday.

"The address delivered by Pope Pius XII on Sunday finds complete approval in Italian political circles. It was stressed here today. It is pointed out that the Italian wireless gave the widest circulation to the address so as to bring it to the knowledge of the Italian nation and of the rest of the world.

"Political circles take the view that the Pope's words were carefully balanced and that his holiness did not go outside the religious and ethical sphere."

Senate Favors Logan-Walter Bill Discussion

Proponents Uncertain of Obtaining Final Vote Before New Session.

(Picture on Page 1.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(P)—Disregarding the vigorous objections of the majority leadership, the senate voted today to take up the much-disputed Logan-Walter bill, designed to give the courts increased authority to review and set aside the decisions of such governmental agencies as the Labor Board and Securities Commission.

The vote was 34 to 21. Republican members voted solidly to give the measure a hearing, and were joined by 15 Democrats. All the 21 opposing ballots were cast by Democrats.

The senate's decision gave the champions of the Logan-Walter measure their first success in a 19-month effort to get the measure before the senate. It has been passed by the house.

Confident of enough senate votes to pass the measure, its pro-

Gyms To Open Battle Relics At Community Centers Here For Cyclorama

Joint Programs Will Be Conducted in Atlanta Schools.

Community centers in several Atlanta schools will be operated during the winter months by the city parks department, the recreation division of the WPA and the board of education.

At the old Henry Grady gymnasium, basketball and badminton courts are open each Friday and Saturday afternoons; the gym at the Joe Brown and Bass Junior High schools are being used for basketball Monday through Friday nights, and at Joe Brown Junior High there will be table games and gymnasium activities on Monday and Wednesday nights.

Both the Joe Brown and Bass Junior High school gymnasiums are open from 8:30 to 10:45 o'clock on Saturday mornings for basketball for boys.

Between 7 and 10 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday nights the James L. Key school will be opened as a community center with various activities offered, which include folk dancing, community singing, table games, arts and crafts and dramatics.

The Community Center program is open to all persons more than 16 years of age. A similar program is in operation at the Techwood Homes Housing Project.

For Negroes, the Community Center programs are being held in the David T. Howard Junior High school from 6:30 until 9:30 o'clock on Monday and Thursday nights, and in the auditorium and recreation rooms at the University Homes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights.

All persons taking part in the Community Center programs are required to register with Miss Virginia Carmichael, area supervisor of recreation for the WPA, or J. Lee Harne Jr., director of recreation for the parks department.

King Carol's Aide Ducks Questions on Balkans

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Nov. 25.—(P)—Radu Irimescu, former Rumanian minister to the United States and aide to King Carol, visited here today but ducked all questions pertaining to the Balkan situation.

Irimescu is making a tour of the United States and will continue to California Friday.

ponents are nevertheless not at all certain that they can obtain a final vote before the end of the year and the convening of the new congress. Unless this is done, the bill must start from scratch again and go through the whole process of legislative consideration in both house and senate.

Several senators deeply opposed to the bill were reported to be ready to introduce the anti-lynching bill as a rider.

Then, too, there was the question of quorums. At the outset of today's session, held in the tiny original senate chamber while the senate's usual quarters are undergoing renovation, a quorum call showed 49 senators, exactly a quorum, present.

Three New Flags of Confederacy Will Be Installed.

May Hartsfield Yesterday Pushed His Campaign to Make a Creditable Showing for the Battle of Atlanta Museum at the Cyclorama at Grant Park.

He had three new flags of the Confederacy, which will be installed as soon as signs describing their use have been made, and he accompanied his latest contributions to the famous historical painting with an appeal to Atlantans and Georgians for weapons or other relics of the defense of Atlanta 75 years ago.

The new flags, the official flag of the Confederacy, the Stars and Bars and the battle flag, will be draped above the portraits of General Robert E. Lee, Alexander H. Stephens and Jefferson Davis, Hartsfield said.

Two new portraits also will be placed in the museum portion of the building at an early date. One will be of L. P. Grant, pioneer Atlanta builder and designer and supervisor of Civil War defenses of Atlanta and donor of the park. The other will be of James M. Calhoun, who served as mayor of Atlanta during the turbulent years of 1862-1865.

H. J. Cates, chief of the sanitary department, who learned of the mayor's request, said he will provide a pass through the lines issued by Mayor Calhoun in 1864.

Battle relics are being gathered for the museum, on the cyclorama's second floor.

$73,575,261 Contract Is Let for Arms Plant

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(P)—A $73,575,261 contract for a small arms ammunition plant to be located near Lake City, Mo., was awarded by the War Department today to the Remington Arms Company, Inc., Bridgeport, Conn. The Army said agents named by the Quartermaster Corps were in the process of purchasing about 2,200 acres of land for the plant. Negotiations for construction have not yet been completed, the Army said, but title to the plant and equipment will rest in the federal government. Lake City is near Kansas City.

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 26, 1940.

Food Distribution

The functions of executive agencies and the congress more and more appear to be operating at cross-purposes. Two recent incidents, both involving the Department of Justice, serve as examples.

The first example is the assumption of investigative detail by the Dies committee, a good part of which undoubtedly has hampered the work of duly constituted investigative agencies of the government.

The second example is the probe of food prices launched by the Department of Justice, which, as an investigation of monopolistic practice probably is justified but, as an attack on the wider principle of the failure of the price and distribution structure, properly comes within the province of the congress.

It is evident from the statement of the Justice Department that it is attacking the food price situation along the broad lines of national policy rather than the restricted field of monopoly. "The occasion for the food investigation is recent evidence that the food industries function badly for both consumers and farmers," the department said. Continuing, it asserted that "at one end of the food industries lies wholesale malnutrition among consumers due to their inability to afford an adequate diet. At the other end lies a population of producing farmers who must sell an abundance of food at distress prices so low as to threaten them with bankruptcy. Between are industrial groups, many of which are so close-knit and powerful that they have made satisfactory profits throughout the depression . . . more than 4,000,000 families cannot obtain an adequate minimum diet at present prices, and 8,000,000 additional families run serious risk of a poor diet unless they spend their food money cautiously and wisely. In the aggregate these groups constitute more than 41 per cent of the American people."

There is definite need of such an investigation. But it is definite also that this whole problem of unused agricultural capacity and inadequate diet for a large segment of the American people is a matter of national policy coming within the scope and duty of the congress. If the present distributive system is at fault, and few will deny that it, at least partly, must bear the blame for conditions as they exist today, then it should be overhauled by congressional edict and not piecemeal by an administrative department operating against one element of the situation in an effort to alleviate a basic defect of the economy.

It is perhaps only fair to emphasize that congress has shown little inclination to seek the far-reaching reorganization necessary to remove or adjust the paradox of starvation and malnutrition in the midst of plenty. The administration, despite the bitter attack of some critics, has nibbled at the issues, but often with the left hand without letting the right hand know what it was doing. It has, for example, sought to break a housing bottleneck and to eliminate slums by housing projects. It has used the stamp plan in an inadequate manner to bring wholesome foods within the reach of the poorer elements of the society. Yet it has on the other hand permitted starvation and malnutrition to exist while sharply holding down the production of farm products which would amply feed and clothe every single person in the United States.

It is not monopoly alone which is at fault. It is, for one thing, the refusal of the people as a whole to assimilate the truth that capitalism can continue only if it remains amenable to change; if it remains dynamic. Once it becomes completely static, as it did in the latter 1920's and early 1930's, it is doomed, and no oblique attack such as that proposed by the Department of Justice will serve to stall the ultimate answer to a condition which is basic, but is being approached as though it merely were superficial. Capitalism can be termed more than a form of society. It is more, it is a way of life, and when that way of life refuses adequate sustenance to 41 per cent of its people we have a condition which calls for a frank examination of the base of society by those persons elected to form the national policy.

The food investigation of the Department of Justice undoubtedly will uncover and correct abuses of the distributive organization. But the fact must remain that this is purely superficial and that the true and adequate correction can come only from the congress, if it is to come under our present form of government.

A poll of a CCC camp shows the dish most favored to be pork and applesauce. What are we raising in our back country—a lot of congressmen?

Oasis of Beauty

Atlanta's life will be the richer for its new Hurl park, mecca even in infancy for thousands seeking to drink in some measure of beauty. That slight verdant island in the canyons of the downtown section, in such contrast to the surroundings in which it blooms, will bring a fleeting moment of rest to many a weary soul in the years to come, a second of rest in an hour of hurry.

If the builders of the park and the donors of the fountain, the Emily and Ernest Woodruff Foundation, had contributed nothing else to that intangible greatness that has built Atlanta, they would have done their fair share and more.

Wonder at this if you will, but there are hundreds of little children who for years on end are denied the taste of beauty which has made Atlanta's residential sections envied the nation over. If this park had been conceived for them alone it would more than have justified its cost a thousandfold. And yet it is not for them alone, but for all the thousands who daily live and work downtown, barely a few minutes walk from the heart of the business section.

The landscape architect, William C. Pauley, is to be congratulated upon the very excellent vision with which he transformed a barren, ugly hillock into a rolling, graceful and beautiful park, one which in the years to come should result in the building of new structures about it which would provide the proper setting for this gem in the heart of the city.

Moose have been seen of late on the campus of the University of Alaska. Elsewhere, though, the scarcity of 60-minute fullbacks continues unabated.

Weakness of Overstatement

Bishop Ralph S. Cushman, president of the Anti-Saloon League of America, offered a striking example of the weakness inherent in overstatement in debate, in the course of his speech before the convention of that body, on Sunday, in Washington.

Said Bishop Cushman, America has never witnessed "such moral debauchery" as has taken place since national prohibition was repealed. He described the nation's highways as "slaughter houses of drunken drivers," and declared "the saloon is everywhere."

Now, everybody capable of any observation whatever knows that what the bishop said just isn't true. There are statistics, available to everyone, that give the total of traffic fatalities for the nation for each year. They are lower, today, in proportion to the number of cars and mileage traveled, than they were during prohibition. And, if the bishop sees "saloons" everywhere, his definition of a saloon must be very different from that commonly accepted.

As to the "moral debauchery" charge, the good bishop is simply seeing horrors because he is looking for them. As a matter of fact the moral conditions of America, as an average, are higher than ever before and the younger generation of today is a far better generation than any of the past.

Possibly, by restraint, the bishop could have made some reasonable argument on behalf of his pet bit of paternalism, prohibition, but he completely ruined his own case by indulging in unrestrained exaggeration.

Uniquely Hollywood has quietly restored the old "morality clause" to its players' contracts. The gifted newcomer hereafter must radiate sex and live at the "X."

Editorial Symposium

HITLER . . . IN CONFERENCE

Almost constant conferences of high Nazi officials with leaders of European countries in the Axis orbit evoke widespread conjectures on the part of American editors, with the big question mark concerning the meeting of Russia's Foreign Commissar Molotov with Adolf Hitler in Berlin. "Time will have to show whether Molotov made definite commitments to Hitler and whether he did so with tongue in cheek," says the PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER.

The Berlin newspapers said the conference was for the purpose of deciding the fate of the world, reports the LOS ANGELES TIMES, which drily adds that this "is perhaps a slight overstatement. Its probable purpose is to get Russia to bring pressure on Turkey" so that "German troops may have a free passage toward the Suez Canal or the oil fields of Western Asia." While the "best policy is to fear the worst and hope for the best," editorializes the DALLAS MORNING NEWS, one conception of the agreement "is that Russia merely agrees to keep Turkey out of the Balkan fight and plans no aggression of its own unless Britain is defeated."

Another conjecture is hazarded by the DETROIT FREE PRESS: Because "the Axis war machine is making such swift progress backward . . . a diversion is required to convince its subject peoples that all's right with the totalitarian world." On the other hand, the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR of Boston reasons that Hitler may seek a path across the Balkans in order to send aid to Italy in Greece, and seeks permission from Russia to send Hitler's troops to operate in the Balkans he is in Slavic territory. Naturally Mr. Molotov was invited to Berlin.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

AN OLD, OLD STORY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 25.—Empires may fall and continents tremble, but politics in Washington still goes on. What is more, the same patterns repeat themselves with unvarying regularity. For the past eight years, the President and the men around him have never ceased to struggle to increase their hold on the machinery of the Democratic party organization. They are now having another try. Representative Lyndon Johnson, of Texas, is the spearhead of the new advance. The plan is to associate him with the Democratic National Committee, with some such title as "director," which would give him a real voice in committee affairs. If the plan goes through, Johnson will serve on the committee as the spokesman of the New Deal point of view. Even in the President's third term, this point of view is accepted by few orthodox Democrats. It is certainly not shared by Committee Chairman Ed Flynn, biddable though he is when the President chooses to issue an order.

JOHNSON, PRESIDENTIAL AGENT

Johnson and John Nance Garner admirably typify the new and the old in the democracy. The third term campaign caused the final break between the President and the old Democrats. The parting was pleasant enough. At the last cabinet meeting Garner attended, shortly before the voting, he went up to the President, congratulated him on his victory, and explained he was making his compliment in advance because he would be out hunting when the returns came in.

A majority of the cabinet members were eagerly eavesdropping. None received the vaguest impression that Garner would not go to the polls before taking to the woods. But on election day Garner ostentatiously failed to vote. A symbol of a good many others, he had at last rejected policies and personalities he had long submitted to solely for partisan reasons.

On the other hand, Garner's fellow Texas, Johnson, is one of the rare elective politicians who have really taken both the New Deal and the New Dealers to their bosoms. In the house, he is an adherent of Speaker Sam Rayburn's, but even before Rayburn singled him out, Thomas G. Corcoran had made friends with him and sponsored him at the White House. Corcoran's liking for him also admitted him to the intimacy of the President's administrative assistant, James Rowe, and of many of the other younger New Dealers.

He is now a candidate for promotion because of his close work with the President during the campaign. It is not generally known, but owing to Speaker Rayburn's fears that the Republicans would ditch Wendell Willkie and concentrate on electing a majority in the house, the President became acutely anxious about the Democratic congressional races. Johnson was chosen as the President's private agent to deal with the problem. He and Rayburn collected a special congressional fund of about $60,000, chiefly from anti-Roosevelt Texas Democrats who would not give money to be spent on the President but were glad to finance a Democratic house nominee. And this money was distributed by Johnson among the doubtful districts, and much other work was done, under the President's immediate supervision.

POOR ED FLYNN

Johnson's association with the President gives him an initial advantage—for the reports of victories all across the country which he received from Johnson throughout election night. There is a bitter feud between the Democratic National Committee personnel and the house leaders, who feel the committee never allows sufficient funds to support deserving Democratic congressmen at the polls. Thus the house leadership will probably approve Johnson's advancement. Finally, he may also rely on the enthusiastic backing of many cabinet officers, whose emotions towards Ed Flynn and his entourage are decidedly lurid.

The friction between Flynn and the cabinet was another by-product of the campaign. When the contest started, the leading cabinet members naturally expected to be asked to carry much of the burden of debate. Instead, they appear to have been treated as slightly shameful poor relations, of whom the less seen the better.

Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, for example, although commonly considered one of the big oratorical guns of the administration, was only permitted to pop off in tank tanks. Despite all his friends could do to obtain him a New York engagement, he was never allowed nearer to the city than Yonkers. Then Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes was commanded by the President to tour the northwest, but saw his main speaking date personally cancelled by Ed Flynn. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau gritted his teeth and volunteered to speak, but was never offered a platform. And even Secretary of State Cordell Hull was omitted from the first list of campaign speakers submitted to the President. Consequently, if some of the cabinet have their way, the lot of Chairman Flynn will not be a happy one.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Peculiar Breed of Men.

Of all the peculiarities of mankind you meet, it seems to me that, as a group, city editors constitute one of the most distinctive. That is, real city editors—those who by birth and gifts and training are really qualified for the job.

I don't mean those—there are quite a few—who bear the title but who lack the spark that is essential to make a good city editor. Some day, I think, a book could be written on "City Editors I Have Known, Cussed and Admired." Newspapersmen, anyway, would read it.

There is that well-worn story, credited to Irvin Cobb, in the days when he was front page New York cub reporter. It is said that, arriving at the office one morning, he found the city editor absent and was told the great man was home ill. "I hope it's nothing trivial," said Cobb, with full sincerity.

That's how lots of reporters feel while they cuss 'em and consider them terrible slave masters, they'll go through anything, any assignment for the sake of, first, the city editor and, second, the paper.

He Believed In Beer.

I remember one city editor who had a theory that no man was worth anything unless he enjoyed beer and plenty of it.

That editor had a pet assignment he gave to almost every new reporter on the staff. He sent him to interview the superintendent of a large brewery in that city. He and the superintendent were pals, and the brewery man knew why many reporters were sent to see him. It was to test their response to an opportunity to quaff many goblets of the amber beverage, at no cost. If the man proved a worthy guzzler of the brew, the superintendent so reported, and from then on the reporter's job was reasonably secure. If he refused to drink any of it, he'd be looking for a new job in a day or two.

I'm not saying this city editor had a sensible, a sane or even a decent theory. Just recording the facts. I know that the brewery superintendent myself, of course, none of the interviews was published, but the C. E. had other ways of making it worth while to the brewery chief.

Reporter's Revenge.

I remember a reporter who had incurred the dislike of his city editor on the ground that he hadn't the ability to properly write a good story even after he got it.

So, one day, this reporter dug up a really good feature yarn. It was, I believe, over at the state capital.

Said reporter came to the office and wrote the story, best he possibly could. Gave his all, in fact.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

(The views expressed here are Mr. Pegler's own.)

Poetry, NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

Too. Not many of my readers suspect that, in addition to my well-known knack of expressing petty irritation in terms of high-sounding, moralistic scorn, I possess also an ability to create poetry of great confusion and charm. That is my fault, for these months have been crowded with shrill bickering with the New Deal, the gangsters of the labor racket, the furriners of the Newspaper Guild and that always provocative he-shrew, Mr. Harold F. Ickes. Now I feel, however, that I owe it to myself to show something of my esthetic nature, but, as a preliminary, would like to explain that poetry is a great fake, at once the most pretentious and the least respectable method of literary expression.

The poet has a tremendous advantage over those who write in prose in that he works under no requirements to make any meaning clear. This explains why Kiplings and Longfellow, for example, are regarded as hack, or naive, poets and their work doggerel. Thus Mr. George Ade was banging his old gray head against a reinforced concrete artistic absolute when he said that James Whitcomb Riley was "a genuine poet, even if people could understand him." A brave but futile remembrance on behalf of an old friend. If it had been true Mr. Ade would not have felt the need to say it, and he said it only because he realized that, for all its beauty, Riley's work never could be certified as poetry because of the very fact that people can understand it.

It Is Easy.

Now, I find poetry quite easy and a pleasant relaxation from the commission rules. You start with no idea, write in all directions from a point some distance off center, and your work can ask no higher praise than the verdict that it doesn't seem to mean anything.

For instance: NIGHT OVER JUGOSLAVIA.

Let Cravens crawl when the bugles call
And war clouds lower near;
Let vultures fly in the tumbling sky,
What know the brave of fear?

For 'tis the Spartan breed that cries:
From soul to soul o'er the centuries,
And all is lost when honor dies
For the hearth-fires burning dear.

So spring to arms 'mid war's
And curs'd be he who quails,
When strong men fight to defend the right
And Sharon stalks the vales.

It is man's way to die in war
Undaunted yet, forevermore;
What else was valor given for
While freedom yet prevails?

Starts nowhere, goes nowhere, means nothing, but resounds in a sort of way. In short, poetry.

Or this:
Last night, in the storm-wrack
down the glade,
Where cowslips bloom in the gentle shade,
My soul went wandering, sore afraid
To drink the wine of fear.

While lightning flashed in the sky,
Your hot lips murmured a gentle cry,
"My lover," and I knew 'twas I,
Alone at cupid's bier.

And yet from the crucible of time
In ecstasy of love sublime
The shadows in every pantomime
They danced in measures dear.

Oh, say, when in the bosky swale
The kine are loving, wan and pale,
My love sings sweet as the nightingale,
For you are ever near.

I could develop this demonstration if I had more space, but there are Mrs. R., the general and Ray to think of, and the desk probably will cut hell out of it as it is, which is poetry, fortunately, makes no difference. But I just wanted you to know.

Pulse of Public

BELIEVES PEGLER FEARLESS AND WITHOUT PEER.

Editor, Constitution: While it is not to be denied that "the truth he speaks does lack some gentleness," it is devoutly to be hoped that those of your readers whose super-refined sensibilities have been ruffled by the trenchant pen of the irrepressible Westbrook Pegler did not miss his article in Tuesday's Constitution anent the recent Italian fiasco on the Grecian front, wherein this brilliant master of satire pays glowing tribute to the mobility of the valunted legions of the mighty Mussolini.

Possibly without a peer in the broad field of American journalism, this fearless, facile writer employs with devastating effect scathing sarcasm, inimitable irony and ruthless ridicule in his merciless attacks upon subversive practices whether indulged in by prince or pauper, and his daily observations illustrate the freedom of the press and, at the same time, exemplify the truth of the poetical saying that "the pen is mightier than the sword."

It may be that his views are not those of The Constitution, but they are, nevertheless, the sentiments of thousands of your readers, who, while they appreciate your candid editorials, would be lost without Mr. Pegler's daily column.

Elberton, Ga.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL

"ILLOGICAL, ELATE—" You may take three items in the newspapers of the past day or so and make a story of them.

James Truslow Adams, writing in the magazine section of the New York Times, discusses this country and its people. He recalls that all of us, unless we be Indian, are the descendants of immigrants. He believes this has bred a national character very much like that which the late Rudyard Kipling described:

... illogical, elate
He greets the embarrassed Gods, nor fears
To shake the iron hand of Fate,
Or match with Destiny for beers."

Secondly, there was an editorial in the esteemed Montgomery Advertiser, written by the equally esteemed Grover Hall, which declared as its major premise there is more to Thanksgiving than a groaning board.

Thirdly, I would take the published report concerning the census report. This report shows that the birth rate in America is falling. And not so slowly as one might think.

Unless something happens to change the trend there are those now living who will see our entire national outlook changed by the impact and influence of older persons. Indeed, it may already be seen in the various towns and groups and their vociferous capers. The time is coming, unless the trend is changed, when legislation will be wrought for the benefit of the older persons and with disregard for the young who must produce both goods and children and fight the battles, if there be any. In other words, we are on our way to becoming a nation of mature persons with all that implies.

SHRINKING FAMILIES

The report shows that families are shrinking with some rapidity. The 1940 population of the United States, divided by the number of occupied dwelling units (houses, apartments), gives an average of 3.79 persons as compared with 4.10 in 1930 and 5.55 in 1850 when families first were counted in the census.

The only states which now offer more than four persons to the family are the southeastern states (excluding Florida) and Maine, North Dakota and New Mexico.

When the census finally is completed it probably will show a national average of about 1.5 children per family. This is alarming now. Not something about which to be alarmed in the future.

Only in the southern states, the focal point for sneers by the more effete critics of the east, are there enough children being born to maintain the population level. We have the poll tax and we have a stubborn people which believe in the Democratic party, come hell or high water. They also manage to produce children.

As yet the south hasn't learned how to give its children enough educational advantages; enough health supervision and enough good homes in which to live.

But, by gum, the south hasn't tried to solve those problems, which exist in all other sections, by refusing to have children.

Now and then I find myself taking a great pride in the south just because it is stubborn and because so many persons think southerners are a bit ornery.

We go on our ornery way, producing the most volunteers for the Army at draft time, the most enlistments, the most children and the most progress industrially. Also the most votes against Republicans. Yes, sir, I take a pride in the stubbornness of the south.

NOT JUST PLENTY OF FOOD

As The Advertiser says, the first Thanksgiving is a d cocktail party in the afternoon.

And as Mr. Adams, the historian, says, all of us are descendants of immigrants. The late Will Rogers used to say that his folks didn't come over on the Mayflower but that they did meet the boat. Aside from the Indians all of us are descendants of those who came to this country as immigrants.

The first Thanksgiving, and those in following years, were held not because it was the last Thursday in Thanksgiving but to celebrate a harvest. The first good harvest, the first winter which could be met without fear a supply ship might not arrive, the establishment of peace with the inhabitants, were, as The Advertiser says, reasons enough for thanksgiving.

There was a spiritual chapter. These people came, as did others after them, to find a certain freedom. They did not expect ease or comfort. They were willing to work for these.

They came with the rifle and the gun. They were those who kept the loaded rifle because they knew there were those who would destroy what they had earned if they could not protect it.

Today we are loading our rifle again. America is arming.

And, as the birth rate falls, it might be worth considering to see if it would not be a good thing for us to let more immigrants come when the war is done; to give us a surge of new people who will do as did the immigrants who came to this country—become a part of our national character.

It is worth thinking about. The three stories fit together.

Christian Democracy Must Offer A Thrill To Win Heart of Youth

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

"Right forever on the scaffold,
"Wrong forever on the throne."

That isn't true, of course; but there is a measure of truth in it, and that measure is explained by the inferior methods, the ineptitude and the indifference or insincerity of those who support the right.

Is this, as in all matters, people reap what they sow. They get what they asked for.

Observe this world revolution, which is a contest between two forces to win and control the soul of youth. How does the battle go? And why?

Look at Germany—the mechanized divisions, the parades with banners, the heel-clicking discipline everywhere. Young men are the leaders. And to all young men the Nazi movement offers excitement and hope and opportunity to share a great adventure. It gives them the idealism and religious zeal they need, for it is a religion. It gives them the joy of marching under banners to conquer the world for a cause and a master they adore.

What has our side—the side of Christian democracy—to offer youth in place of that?

We offer passive waiting and preparation for defense of our skins.

Is that thrilling? Does that inspire youth? And, if youth is to defend Christian democracy, how many believe in it and love it with a fierce and absorbing passion?

Travel from coast to coast and question high school kids concerning their religion. Most of them will say to you: "Oh, we got the low-down on that hooey long ago. These aren't the Dark Ages."

Do you realize that this generation is being educated to disbelieve in God? It is scornful of religion.

Do you wonder why? Then observe the example youth is given, for we learn chiefly from example by absorption rather than precept.

One boy says: "My old man is a religious crank. He makes me sick—always preaching at me, but he beats the kids and he's too lazy to work and make a decent living for Mom."

Another, in a different kind of home, says his parents go to church and believe in a Heaven for well-dressed people with nice manners, but not for common, trashy people. Their religion is a comfort and never interferes with anything they wish to do.

The kids don't see much that would cause them to say: "I wish I could be a part of that."

It takes example to inspire youth. Kids must see something that makes their hearts beat fast. It must satisfy their idealism and give them reason for enthusiasm. It must be alive, dynamic, passionate, soul-stirring.

Christianity was like that at first, and other religious crusades have been like it. So is the religious crusade of the Nazis.

All youth hunger to be part of something big. And the other side will always have the advantage if ours offers nothing but passive waiting and an example of casual lip service or self-centered emotionalism.

Rotary Addressed On Phone Manners

Ralph N. Pfaff, former president of the Asheville Rotary Club, pointed out the harm done business by bad telephone manners at the Atlanta Rotary Club yesterday, assisted by R. A. Blankenship, who showed the film, "New Voice of Mr. X."

The motion picture revealed tangled phone wires, slow switchboard operators, lack of pad and pencil at phone, and crabby telephone voices as causes of losing customers and consequently losing business.

Theodore Forbes spoke on behalf of the annual Christmas Seal sales of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association.

Important Year Overlooked by Daily Press

Returning from a voyage to south Georgia, where friends slay more quail than they consume and have plenty left over for visitors, I find a number of letters pointing out my errors of fact or omission. I select one of the latter for comment.

It is from Sylvia Feldman, of 873 Vedado Way, who appends "age 12" to her missive. Maybe so!

"For shame!" she writes. "Do you realize this is 1940? The year when Frederic of 'The Pirates of Penzance' was to reach his 21st birthday! I've been expecting you to comment on it—and the year is nearly gone."

My apologies to Miss Feldman. But I never could remember dates. I'm afraid her letter and my comment will offer no interest to any but Gilbert and Sullivan fans. But in case any of these may be as forgetful as I am, I'll recall the sad case of young Frederic.

He was entrusted by his parents or guardian to the care of an old nurse with instructions he should be apprenticed to be a pilot and master that honorable profession. He was to serve thus until "his 21st birthday."

This Gilbert and Sullivan nurse, being slightly deaf—and apparently considerably dumb—misunderstood her orders. But let her spin the yarn:

"Mistaking my instructions, which within my brain did gyrate, I took and bound this promising boy apprentice to a pirate. A sad mistake it was to make and doom him to a vile lot. I bound him to a pirate—you—instead of a pilot."

Leap Year Baby.

It was here the paradox regarding young Frederic's age began to show up in the plot. Gaining manhood, he resolved to join His British Majesty's navy and exterminate all pirates, including those he loved so well.

But no! Such was not to be! Just as Frederic was bidding the gang farewell the pirate king pulled the papers on him. He was apprenticed, not until he was 21, but until his 21st birthday.

And as Frederic was born in leap year, on February 29, he wouldn't have 21 birthdays until he was an old man.

"In 1940 I of age shall be," declared Frederic, bravely. And then, he continued, nobly, he would return and claim the fair Mabel for his bride. And Mabel, of course, vowed she would wait.

"The Pirates of Penzance" was produced in 1880. The year 1940 looked very far away, no doubt. But that year has rolled 'round, as years have a way of doing.

It would be pleasant to muse on whether Frederic did serve out his apprenticeship to the pirate band and whether Mabel remained true. But one must adhere to facts. In the last act it was discovered the pirates were all sons of noblemen, so they were pardoned at once and entered the House of Lords. And Frederic and Mabel were wedded.

I trust Miss Feldman's grief over the world's neglect of this momentous year is now assuaged.

Coventry and Godiva.

That air-raid on Coventry has revived the legend of the Lady Godiva who rode nude through the streets of that medieval city. But few remember why she did. Story is, as Tennyson told it, she was the wife of Leofric, the big shot of the town. He taxed the people oppressively. She begged him to cut taxes. He said he would if she would ride a horse, sans riding habit and everything else, through the streets. Nice old guy. But maybe he didn't think she'd do it.

But she did, clad only in her long golden hair and confidence in her own virtue. The good people of Coventry, the legend relates, went indoors and shut their windows and turned their backs. Except one nut named Thomas Something-or-Other, who took a peek through a crack. And was struck blind. Hence the term "Peeping Tom."

Which brings up a more modern yarn—though it's getting frayed around the edges.

Chap in a Connecticut station wagon and horse show town excitedly called up a friend in New York.

"Drop everything," he urged, "and come up here. We're having a parade for some charity and the president of the Debutante Clubs is going to play Lady Godiva—in the original costume, or lack of it. Going to ride a horse right down Main street, in the nude."

"Hold a good spot for me," returned his New York friend. "I'm catching the next train. I haven't seen a horse in 15 years."

Some of those quiz programs on the radio are ridiculously simple, and answers vague. But sometimes there's a spark.

Easing a victim along the other night the interlocutor delved into higher mathematics.

"If you found $15 in one pants pocket and $4.75 in another," he asked, "what would you have?"

Right back came the answer: "I'd have on somebody else's pants."

"SUNDAY LADY"—Miss Martha Berry, Georgia's most famous woman educator, will be honored tomorrow night at 6:30 o'clock over station WSB when the "Cavalcade of America" will dramatize the story of her school at Rome. The program originates in New York and will be heard on the red network of the National Broadcasting Company.

Conviction Voided By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(P)—The conviction of a Houston, Texas, negro for assaulting a white woman was reversed by the supreme court today on a finding that Negroes had been barred from grand juries in the county where he was indicted.

It is part of the established tradition in the use of juries as instruments of public justice that the jury be a body truly representative of the community," said the unanimous decision, delivered by Justice Black.

The court found that although Negroes constitute more than one-fifth of the population of Harris county, Texas, and "a minimum of from three to six thousand of them measure up" to statutory qualifications, only five had served on grand juries from 1931 through 1938, when the defendant was indicted, and none had served in 1937 or 1938.

Radio Program To Pay Tribute To Miss Berry

Network To Dramatize Story of Her School Tomorrow Night.

"The Light on the Hills," a radio dramatization of the life of Miss Martha Berry and the school for mountain boys and girls which she founded at Rome, will be presented on the "Cavalcade of America" program over station WSB at 6:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

The program will outline the manner in which the "Sunday Lady of Possum Trot" came out of an exclusive finishing school at Baltimore to found an institution which now includes a complex organization of high school, grammar school and college attended by hundreds of students whose only tuition is the work of their hands on a 25,000-acre farm.

Miss Berry, who is recovering from a recent illness, will not be able to appear on the program, which originates in New York, as was originally intended.

Angier Duke Will Wed Margaret Screven Tuck

MINDEN, Nev., Nov. 25.—(P)—Angier Biddle Duke, 26, and Margaret Screven White Tuck, 34, both of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., obtained a marriage license today a few hours after the latter had received a Reno divorce from Alexander J. M. Tuck.

Duke, heir to some of the Duke tobacco fortune and nephew of United States ambassador to Poland, Anthony Drexel Biddle Jr., was divorced by Priscilla Avoval St. George Duke in Reno August 27.

Mrs. Tuck was granted the decree on grounds of cruelty. The couple was married at Mill River, N. Y., June 21, 1932.

Cactus and Cocklebur.
"Cum rite in, Dr. Tarvur. Move there, yur boys, 'n let the doctor git to the fire. 'Preciate yur cumin', doctor. Sorter hated to see' fur yur, but I figger'd Chollie wuz hurtin' mo'n he wuz tellin' eny uv us, 'n yur may 'n yur mayn't know what it is when yur true fren is sick..."

"Yes, Mr. Cactus, I really do appreciate your confidence in me in calling me in to see Mr. Cocklebur. I well remember how my father used to speak of you and Mr. Cocklebur. I remember coming down here in this community during the flu epidemic in 1918. Remember the two fine black mares he used to drive?"

"Deed I do. Ef yur ha't es gud a doctor es yur daddy, kin call yurself a big success. But now 'bout Chollie, doctor. Say, yur fellers scatter out'n here. I'd lak ter talk privrately with Dr. Tarvur. There, now doctor, tell me whut yur think 'bout Chollie."

"Well, of course, Mr. Cactus, I couldn't speak definitely and finally about Mr. Cocklebur's condition on the basis of one visit. A man his age requires some careful observation to reach a definite diagnosis. I will say that I am rather agreeably surprised to find his heart in such apparently good condition. He does have some blood pressure, but careful dieting ought to help that, and I am taking a specimen along for careful check on the kidneys, and I hope we are not going to find any serious trouble there. I gave Mrs. Cocklebur some medicine and instructions about his diet, and I will be back day after tomorrow with some more medicine. If he should need me before then, you will be certain to get me word, and I will come, day or night. Good day, Mr. Cactus."

"Gud day, Dr. Tarvur."

Cactus stood in the door of the old store building, watching the doctor's big car plough its way through the cold, red mud in front of the store, and up the winding road to the paved highway 200 yards away, leading to the new concrete bridge at Channel Cat Crossing. It was nearly dark, but Cas Cactus picked up a big piece of oak wood and carried it to the open hearth in the store, and threw it on the embers. Looking all about the store, illumined by the blaze of the fresh log, he drew one of the two arm chairs in front of the fire, and sat down. Gazing into the glowing fire, he said softly, talking to himself, as was his custom when he was in deep thought:

"Heart in 'parently gud condition... I hope we're not goin' ter fine eny serus trubul with kidneys... Blud pressure... Diurt? Whut did he mean, diurt? ... O Lawd, please be with this doctor 'n help him, Lawd, ter figger out Chollie's case. 'N Lawd, be with Chollie, 'n raise him up, ef it kin be Thy holy will, ter Jesus' sake..."

"Grandpa, Grannie said to tell you supper is ready. Mother's already put the biscuit in the oven. Come on, Grandpa."

"Shore, Kitty, shore. I bin hurr'n roun' here fur sumtime t'yn' to git off to supper. There, evvurthin's shet now, let's go. Let's go, Kitty."

Walking along the dark path from the store to the house, her hand in her grandfather's hand, Kitty was deep in thought, trying to figure out what it was that had him in such earnest prayer when she entered the store. While he was washing his hands on the back porch, Kitty ran into the kitchen, where the grandmother sat by the open fire while her mother was taking up the supper. Standing by her grandmother's chair, she asked:

"Grannie, why is Grandpa so serious? When I ran into the store, he was sitting there before the fire with his face in his hands, praying. And when he looked up, I saw tears in his eyes."

Life Policies Of $11,563,000 Paid in State

Insurance Benefits in 1940 Average $1,284,778 a Month.

The families and other beneficiaries of Georgia policyholders received an aggregate of $11,563,000 from life insurance companies in settlement of death claims during the first nine months of 1940. It was announced yesterday by the Institute of Life Insurance.

"The importance of the economic and social contribution of life insurance to the families and communities of this state is indicated by the fact that the funds flowing into bereaved homes so far this year have averaged $1,284,778 per month," Holgar J. Johnson, president of the institute, stated in releasing the figures.

Of the death claim benefit payments made in this state, this year, up to September 30, 1940, $8,818,000 was paid out on ordinary policies, $1,281,000 on group policies and $1,472,000 on industrial policies.

Total death claim benefit payments in the eight South Atlantic States and the District of Columbia, aggregated $75,032,000 for the nine months, comprising $56,829,000 on ordinary policies, $8,730,000 on group policies, and $11,473,000 on industrial policies.

The compilation includes payments by American life insurance companies and payments by Canadian life insurance companies on policies held in the United States.

Hold back the years -to look well -to feel strong

Thousands know of the amazing benefits of S.S.S. Tonic to help build rich, red blood...to increase the appetite...to aid digestion

If you are past middle-life you will want to give particular attention to two important body functions—one, to keep your natural stomach digestive juices flowing...two, to keep your blood rich and healthy.

Frequently, as the years advance, the stomach becomes sluggish in pouring out its digestive juices to make use of the food eaten...likewise, wear and strain of worry, overwork, colds, and sickness often reduce one's blood strength.

Now you may rebuild your blood strength and restore sluggish stomach digestion, in the absence of an organic trouble or focal infection, with the famous S.S.S. Tonic.

S.S.S. acts two ways
In S.S.S. Tonic you get after the trouble in two ways...first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Join the happy thousands
S.S.S. may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again...it helps build sturdy health...that's why so many say it "makes you feel like yourself again."

The Army IN GEORGIA

By EDWARD E. BOMAR.

Associated Press Writer.

FORT BENNING, Ga., Nov. 25. The army threw 259 roaring tanks into mimic battle here today in the public, full-scale demonstration of one of its complete new armored divisions.

In the wake of an aerial hail of aerial bombs, the tanks raced forward over fields and crashed woodland trees to overwhelm a simulated enemy force.

Brigadier General George S. Patten, division commander, told newsmen, "I'd hate to be in front of that power in wartime." The tank preparation, in which blank shells were used, alone represented "15 minutes of hell."

From officers of the army's new parachute battalion, meanwhile, came the contention that the United States rather than Germany pioneered the latest method of aerial attack.

Lieutenant William T. Ryder, of St. Louis, noted that the first recorded mass jump was made by 10 troopers in April, 1928, at Chantilly, Illinois. The army did not develop the tactics further until after the Nazi invaders demonstrated its possibilities in the Netherlands.

Explaining that parachute troops are armed with pistols and grenades which could be used while drifting to the ground, he said he did not believe they would be "bothered much by farmers with pitchforks."

GEORGIA DRAFTEES

TO REPORT TO 3 FORTS

Of the 286 white Georgians to be called in the first draft, 96 will report to the induction station at Fort McPherson, 96 at Fort Benning and 95 at Fort Screven.

After a day at the induction center, where they will be sworn in, the draftees at Screven and Benning will be sent to the reception center at McPherson to join the 95 already there for outfitting, classification, and assignment to regular army units at Fort McClellan, Camp Blanding and McPherson.

Forty of the group will remain at the Atlanta post, while the remaining 246 will be divided between McClellan and Blanding. Of the 128 Negroes to be called up at the same time, 42 will be sworn in at Fort McPherson, 42 at Fort Benning and 44 at Fort Screven.

From the induction centers all will be transferred to Fort Bragg, N. C., for permanent assignment.

Corps area officials suggested that those who are called in bring along enough personal equipment for a weekend trip, as it may be two or three days before the army gets around to distributing everything from razor blades to overcoats. Toilet articles, a clean shirt and enough money to last until payday, the first of the month, was given as approximately what the nation's first peacetime draftees will need.

ATLANTA FIRM GETS $20,397 ARMY CONTRACT

Nunnally & McCrea Company, of Atlanta, have received $20,397.50 army award for 10,000 one-piece denim work suits, Fourth Corps area headquarters announced yesterday.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS COMMISSIONED

Appointments of Captain Henry J. Ellis, of Statesboro, as adjutant of the 214th coast artillery; of James P. Clay, of 419 Collier road, Atlanta, as second lieutenant, Battery A, 179th Field artillery; of Lindsey A. Maddox, of Jackson, as second lieutenant, Company A, 121st infantry; and Carl H. Martin, of Savannah, as second lieutenant, Troop A, 108th Cavalry, Georgia National Guard, have been approved by the National Guard Bureau in Washington.

Appointments were approved by the army after a series of tests. The officers now hold dual status as commissioned officers of the military forces of the state of Georgia and of the National Guard of the United States.

CAPTAIN POU ASSIGNED TO ATLANTA DISTRICT

Captain Frank E. S. Pou, corps of engineers, who has been on temporary duty in Atlanta, has been relieved from assignment at Camp Shelby, Miss., and named assistant to the comstructing quartermaster of the Atlanta district.

GENERAL McDONNELL TO COMMAND 1TH WING

Brigadier General John C. McDonnell, commander of the Third Bombardment group at Savannah, has been assigned to command the Seventh Pursuit Wing, General Headquarters Air Force at Mitchell Field, L. I., New York, fourth corps area headquarters announced yesterday. A graduate of Loyola College, Baltimore, General McDonnell was commissioned a cavalry lieutenant in 1912 and transferred to the air corps four years later.

ARMY IS SEEKING CLERK-STENOGRAPHERS

Army vacancies exist for clerk-stenographers, radio operators, dental technicians, automobile and airplane mechanics. Technical Sergeant Cecil Mayes, of the army recruiting station, 321 New Post Office building, reported yesterday. Mayes said his office was also enlisting for the quartermaster corps, infantry, and field artillery of the Second Armored Division at Fort Benning. Applicants must be between 18 and 35, in good physical condition, and without dependents.

OGLETHORPE READY FOR DRAFTEES

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga., Nov. 25.—Officers here have completed all arrangements for inducing the first group of Tennessee draftees into the Army on December 4. Captain Ivan Ward, commanding officer of the post induction and temporary reception center, said today.

Equipment and toilet articles have been shipped to the post here and await distribution to the draftees at the temporary reception center. Offices for the induction station and temporary reception center have been established in the CCC buildings on the post reservation.

A total of 395 white men and 77 Negroes from the entire state of Tennessee will be sent to the post here for induction into the army during the month of December.

Arrangements also have been completed here for the quarantining of the draftees for a maximum of five days while they await shipment to their permanent training posts. The young men will be given their physical examinations and administered the oath of allegiance at the induction center, and will answer questionnaires and be issued uniforms and equipment at the reception center.

The reception center here will be abolished after the center at Fort McPherson is expanded, Captain Ward said today.

Blast Capsizes Ship

Carrying Immigrants

HAIFA, Palestine, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The steamship Patria with 1,771 immigrants aboard capsized today in Haifa harbor when an unexplained explosion rocked the ship. Most of those aboard managed to swim ashore.

The death toll was not immediately determined.

The immigrants were classified as illegal and had been put aboard the Patria for transport to a British colony.

Dealers Shown New Harvester Trucks Here

Increased Earning Power for Owners Is Outstanding Feature.

More than 250 dealers representing the sales organization of the International Harvester Company in this section met here yesterday to see the first completely new line of motor trucks brought out by the company since 1937.

The company, it was explained, does not produce new models yearly, but after introducing a model adds to it and incorporates in it various advanced features as they are worked out by the engineering division, thus keeping each year's output thoroughly modern.

J. N. Martin, manager of the International Harvester Company of Atlanta, host to his visiting dealers, told them that the outstanding feature of the new trucks was an increased earning power for their owners.

Outstanding mechanical development, he pointed out, is the new "green diamond" engine, designed exclusively as a truck power plant and introduced for the first time in the new K-line series.

Basically simple, the new engine, Martin said, is unusually rugged, smooth and quiet of operation, economical, durable and powerful. The truck itself is modern and smart in design, he pointed out, with new safety features including hydraulic brakes, sealed beam lights, an all-steel cab and safety plate glass. Comfort is enhanced by longer, easier riding springs.

The Atlanta branch of the company during 1940 did the biggest business in its history both in the truck and farm implement field, Martin said.

Foreign, Domestic Trade Bureau Moves Offices

District offices of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce yesterday were moved from the New Post Office building to larger space on the sixth floor of the Rhodes building on Marietta street.

Change was necessitated by expanding functions and personnel of the local office, C. P. Persons, district manager said.

Atlanta, St. Louis Banks Lead Way

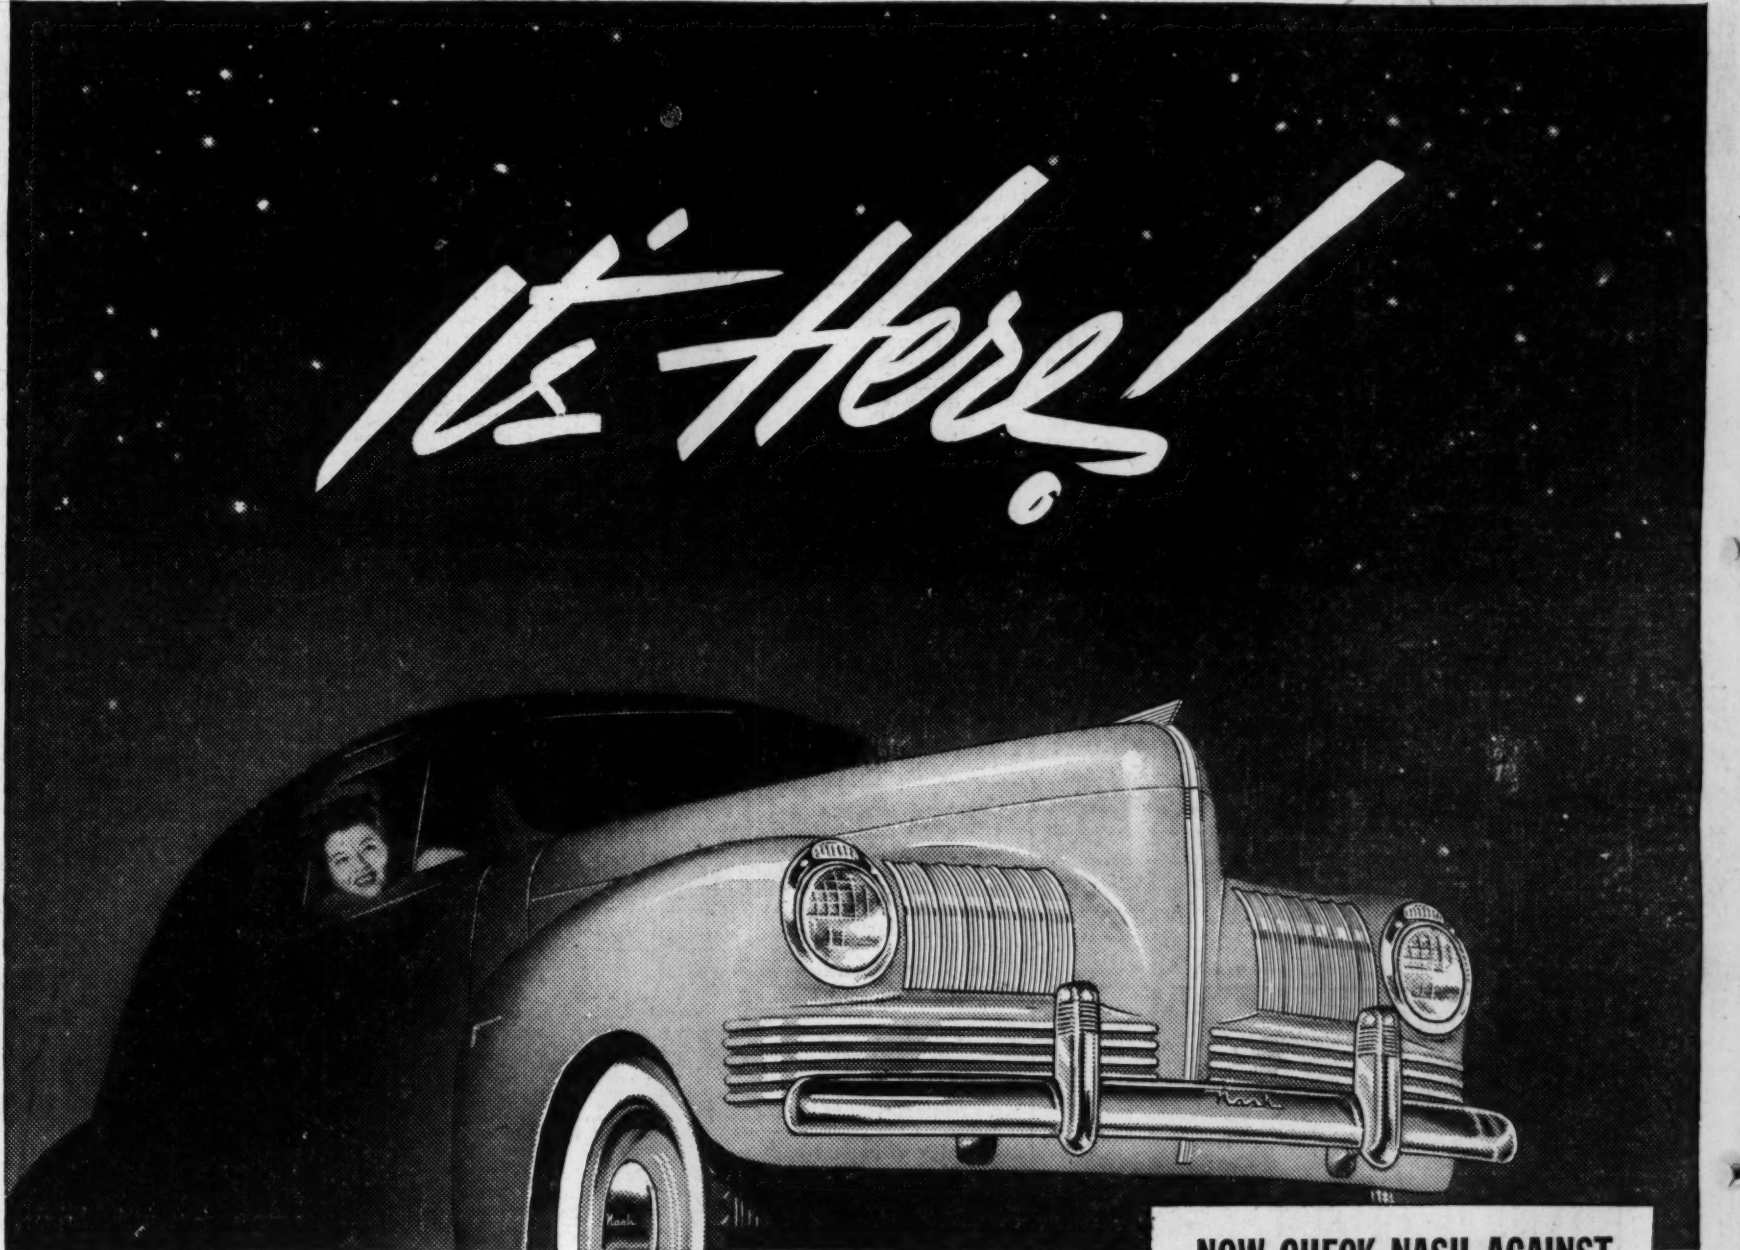

Banks in the Atlanta and St. Louis districts led the nation last week in expanding business loans primarily for defense industries, the Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday in Washington.

The board reported that the two districts accounted for five million dollars each of the $13,000,000 increase in such loans in the week ended November 20 among banks of 101 leading cities. The period was the eighth consecutive week to show such increases, but usually New York or Chicago banks were in the van of the movement.

Every Dealer listed below Now has the Sensational Nash Ambassador "600"—is Ready to give Demonstrations and Accept Orders

At last, it's here! The sensational new kind of car in the lowest-price field—the Nash Ambassador "600".

Your first surprise is coming when you view the tremendous size and room of this Nash—and hear it will deliver 25 to 30 miles on a gallon of gas, with good driving.

And that's only one of the motoring miracles you'll see. These sleek, low-slung bodies are built on new aircraft principles—of welding body and frame into one rattle-proof, twist-proof unit of amazing strength.

And Now—Step on the Gas!

At the first touch of the throttle, you'll realize that here is at once both the smoothest six-cylinders and the "liveliest" car you've ever had your hands on.

It fairly darts through traffic...romps up hills...has pick-up of 15 to 50 MPH in 12 seconds, high gear.

It rides the curves like a locomotive, but steers light as a feather. Here—for the first time—is Two-way Roller Steering, absolutely the easiest you ever experienced.

And the way the bumps melt away tells you something wonderful has happened to springing, too. Nash gives you the only low-price car with soft coil springs on all four wheels.

Even the air you breathe is different...fresh, dustless, warm as May. And it stays that way—even at 10° below zero with Nash's Weather Eye Conditioned Air System.

You'll discover savings you never dreamed were possible...$70 to $100 a year just on gas, tires and touring expense.

Yes—and every idea about what an automobile can be or do or cost will change when you see and drive this new kind of car.

In years past, there have been very few differences between automobiles. They all looked, cost, rode, handled about the same.

But—with Nash—all that has changed! Thanks to a revolutionary $7,000,000 building program, Nash offers—by direct comparison—bigger, better cars at lower 1941 prices, for 92% of the car-buying public.

In the new Aeropowered Nash Six and Eight, as well as the Nash "600"—the differences in size

NOW CHECK NASH AGAINST THE LOWEST-PRICE FIELD!

A. O. Pi National President To Visit Atlanta Alumnae

Miss Helen Haller, of Los Angeles, Cal., national president of Alpha Omicron Pi, will be the guest of the Atlanta alumnae group and of the Lambda Sigma chapter at the University of Georgia today and tomorrow. Miss Haller was elected president of the sorority in 1939 at the biennial convention in Pasadena, following six years as treasurer of the organization. She is a graduate of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, and is cashier and statistical secretary of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

Miss Haller is visiting active and alumnae chapters in the southern states and while in New Orleans she conferred with committees arranging for the 1941 convention at the Roosevelt hotel in that city.

Mrs. Claude C. Bell, president of the Atlanta alumnae chapter and alumnae superintendent of the southern district, will entertain Miss Haller at breakfast this morning, and later today they will drive to Athens, where Miss Haller will inspect the Lambda Sigma chapter. They will be accompanied by Mrs. John McConnell, a member at Cornell university, and by Charlotte Granberry, Randolph-Macon college, who is financial advisor of the Athens chapter. They will be the guests of the active chapter at luncheon at the Alpha Omicron Pi house on Milledge avenue.

Members of the faculty have been invited to meet Miss Haller at a buffet supper this evening at the chapter house. Later in the evening Miss Haller will meet with the chapter, conduct a model initiation, and meet with the informal alumnae group in Athens. Marie Richardson, of Atlanta, is president of the chapter at the University of Georgia.

Miss Haller will return to Atlanta tomorrow to be the guest of the Atlanta alumnae at a supper at the home of Mrs. A. D. DuBose, Southwestern university, on Johnson road.

Auxiliary To Meet.

Grady Hospital Women's Auxiliary meets today at 11 o'clock in the nurses' home at the hospital. Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, state commander of the Georgia division of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, will speak.

The auxiliary will have the annual jelly shower and plans will be made at this meeting for the Christmas gifts which the auxiliary puts on every tray Christmas day.

Class Mothers Will Give Tea

The class mothers of the Decatur Boys' High school will entertain at tea tomorrow at Boys' High school from 2:30 to 4 o'clock honoring members of the faculty of the school and the members of the P-T-A.

Receiving with the faculty will be the officers of the Parent-Teacher organization, Mrs. Louis W. Reynaud, president; Mrs. William Ingram, first vice president; Mrs. Pitman Sutton, second vice president; Mrs. W. F. Tabor, treasurer, and Mrs. H. A. Thornton, secretary.

Assisting in entertaining will be the daughters of the officers, Misses Doris Thornton, Gloria Thornton, Joyce Tabor, Anne Gardner, Mary Elizabeth Joyce, Lorraine Sappington, Rita Hughes, and Ruth Heege. Mesdames Max Flynt, C. B. Owens, C. A. Nixon, and L. W. Markert, past presidents of this organization, will pour coffee, and the class mothers, who will be hostesses, will include Mesdames Irving deGaris, Walter Dowman, Walter Eubanks, Chester Armistead, R. F. Branch, S. L. Fuller, R. P. Glover, Armand Hendee, E. R. Doucher, M. A. Webber, F. L. Stillwell, H. W. Rainey, P. H. Moore, W. H. Breen, A. E. Staley, I. H. Owen, T. L. Hodges, W. C. Hames, J. R. Hellams, J. O. Noone and M. S. Jolly.

Celebrates Birthday.

Little Linda Lee Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roy Hayes, was honored by her parents last Saturday with a party celebrating her third birthday.

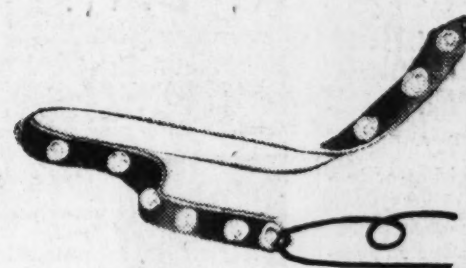

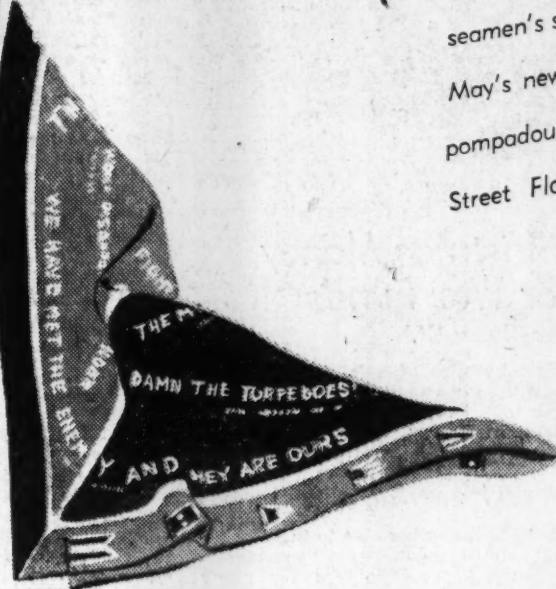

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Jack Hinton.

Invited were Misses Betty and Emily Roberts, Patricia Ann Crumley, Norma Jean Tingle, Patsy Busha, Anne Jenkins, Gloria Jean Hayes and Angie Joy Hayes and Jimmie Preston, Doyle Jenkins and Ray Gunter.

Use Bits of Left-Over Meat

Left-over meat may be made into delicious turnovers.

Turn Them Into Tasty Turnovers

By Sally Saver.

Left-over meat, chicken or turkey makes fine eating when tucked inside flaky little turnovers. Make the turnovers as pictured this way:

Turnovers.

Pastry: Sift 3 cups flour with 3-4 teaspoon salt; cut in 3-4 cup shortening, then add enough ice water to hold dough together. Chill dough thoroughly, then roll out pastry and cut into 4 1-2-inch squares. Place a spoonful of meat mixture on each square, moisten edges of pastry and fold corners, pressing edges together with a fork. Place on greased baking sheet and bake in hot oven 450 degrees for 15 minutes.

Meat Mixture.

Combine 2 cups finely chopped chicken, turkey or cooked meat with 1-2 cup cream of mushroom soup. Or combine with well-seasoned thick white sauce.

Chicken or Turkey à la King. This dish, usually considered sophisticated and difficult, can be made in a twinkling by using canned soup as the base. Here's how:

1 can cream of mushroom soup
1-2 cup rich milk
1 cup chopped chicken or turkey meat

1-2 cup pimiento, cut in strips
1 egg yolk

Stir the soup to mix, and add the 1-2 cup rich milk. Heat and add chicken or turkey and pimiento. Lastly, add egg yolk which has been blended with some of the hot sauce. Heat well, but do not boil. Serve on toast, in patty shells, or with hot buttered rice. Serves 3 or 4.

Questions about foods, recipes, cooking and serving will be answered by Sally Saver. Write or phone The Constitution or WA. 6565.

Total Survey Stumps Dr. Brady

By Dr. William Brady.

It is the universal observation and experience that pulmonary tuberculosis is more prevalent or more likely to develop in the dark complexioned among peoples or races and in individuals of any race than it is among those of light complexion. Even in prognosis the physician takes this characteristic of the disease into consideration and feels more confident of ultimate arrest or cure if the patient is on the blond side.

The general accepted explanation for this characteristic of tuberculosis of the lung (other names for which are phthisis, consumption or "going into decline") is that a skin having more pigment screens out or excludes more of the ultraviolet or other rays of sunlight, and it is the chemical or biological influence of the ultraviolet or actinic rays upon the ergosterol or other substances in the body tissues that brings about recovery or healing, or prevents progress of the disease or prevents the smoldering or latent tuberculosis which is present, perhaps in lymph nodes somewhere in the body of a great many if not most of us in youth, from developing into active disease.

A total survey of a heavily infected district in Chicago where the population is predominantly Negro, made by a group of physicians, under Dr. Frederic Tice, of the Municipal Tuberculosis Sanatorium, had embraced, up to June 18, 1940, examinations of 10,000 persons in the district, including miniature X-ray films of every individual examined. Of these 340 were white persons and 5.29 per cent of them were found to have tuberculosis, while 8.842 of them were colored persons and, contrary to the findings one would expect, only 3.71 per cent of them were found to have tuberculosis.

By "total survey," Dr. Tice and his associates mean an attempt to examine every man, woman and child in the district, including X-ray films. Expense of film alone would be prohibitive on such a scale, if the ordinary X-ray film were used. But a miniature film has been adapted for the purpose, and this costs only four or five cents for each film; it is quite satisfactory when viewed by the expert through a special viewbox which is installed in the mobile X-ray unit used by the Chicago investigators.

In Chicago in 1939 six predominantly Negro districts having 17.5 per cent of the total population of the city accounted for 47.8 per cent of the tuberculosis deaths; while the tuberculosis death rate per 100,000 population in the entire city of Chicago was more than eight times as great among the Negroes as it was among the whites.

How come, then, the extraordinary low degree of active tuberculosis in the Negro population of the district in this total survey? Dr. Tice offers no explanation, merely mentions the matter in his report (J. A. M. A. October 12, 1940).

For once even Ol' Doc Brady, believe it or not, is stumped. Were it a random sample one might attribute the oddity to John J. Coincidence, but you can't shrug off a total survey that way. Won't some one kindly explain it for me?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Poorhouse.

Two druggists said they can't sell the iodine-zinc-iodine recipe you recommend in your booklet "Save Your Teeth" as an application without a doctor's order. (A. F.) Answer—Perhaps that is some local ordinance. Glycerine of iodine and zinc iodine, otherwise called diluted Talbot's solution, is listed in the National Formulary, legal standard for all druggists in the United States.

A Lot of Sugar.

What effect does brown sugar have on a person 65 years old who eats a glassful of it at each meal, with a pint of milk. He has done this for many years. He has frequent micturition at night. (H. B. R.)

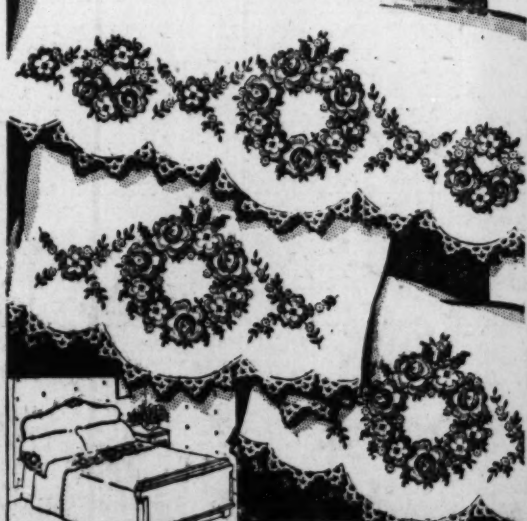

Answer—That would be nearly one and one-half pounds of sugar. A day. Likely to produce diabetes probably that accounts for the nocturnal frequency. Pound of brown sugar is 16 oz. and contains no vitamin B complex. Any one who has an abnormally large intake of sugar in any form or of refined starch in any form, should supplement such diet with a large daily ration of vitamin B complex, to prevent various ailments due to B complex deficiency.

Gary Cooper Threatened With Law Suit If Loan-Out Assignment Is Refused

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 25.—Lew Ayres is turned off the set of "Ziegfeld Girl." And can't understand why—until they tell him that Lana Turner is about to do the famous bathtub scene. Lana wears a hat and a flesh-colored, strapless swimming suit for the function. And I'm still trying to figure out why it was considered necessary to clear the set?

Gary Cooper again is threatened with a $500,000 lawsuit by Boss Sam Goldwyn if he refuses to go through with his loan-out assignment to Warners for "Sergeant York." This was the precise sum for which Goldwyn would have sued Gary if he had refrained, as threatened, from "The Westerner." Cooper has nothing against "Sergeant York" except that it interferes with his lead in "For Whom the Bell Tolls" for Paramount. There's quite a fuss going on because Bette Davis is being loaned for Goldwyn's "Little Foxes" only on condition that Gary does "Sergeant York." And no Gary—no Bette.

You think you have troubles? Wait until you hear about June Carlson. June is 17 years old and was the "Lucy" in the "Jones" pictures until they were abandoned last February. "Since then I've been out of work," June told me yesterday. "It's my age—no one will employ me because I have to do three hours of schooling a day, and it holds up production. It is cheaper to hire older girls to play young girl parts." Of course, it's different with stars of the Linda Darnell-Deanna Durbin caliber, but for small parts like June, the situation is tough.

Ann Sheridan is moping at home. She doesn't want to be seen in public without George Brent. But George is working hard and is too tired to go out in the evening. I'm going to give Ann some advice, which she probably won't take. Patch up your differences with Warners. You are fighting a losing battle. Your bosses will meet you half way, but no further. So what is the sense of erasing yourself from pictures?

Alice Faye and Betty Grable look like a pair of strapping Amazons in local advertisements for "Tin Pan Alley."

"I didn't know you had such a good figure," I teased Miss Faye. "I was surprised myself," she admits with a slight shudder. . . . Hedy Lamarr is having her portrait painted by former flame Reginald Gardiner, who has asked her to marry him when she is a free gal. Reggie is the lad who escorted Hedy before she met Gene Markey. I wonder whether Gardiner's re-emergence means the end of Hedy's friendship with John Howard? I saw John, and he was still calling on Hedy, but that was last week.

Vivien Leigh was seen coming out of the office of a local baby doctor, and a visit from the stork is rumored. . . . Constance Bennett contrives a perfect hair-do, a ditto manicure and exquisite gowns for a lengthy trip in a cargo freighter for "Escape to Glory." She also has one eyebrow more heavily marked than the other, which does not enhance any good looks she happens to possess. To go back to the picture, Connie will have to do better all around—if she is still anxious for a screen comeback.

It was John Payne who insisted that wife Anne Shirley have the clause in her new contract, prohibiting roles of the "Anne of Green Gables" type. "That type of part is death to a screen career," John tells me. But he seems to have forgotten that not only did Anne come to fame via acting in the first "Anne of Green Gables," but she borrowed the name. Anne's real moniker is Dawn Evelyn Paris. She was known as Dawn O'Day as a child actress.

A movie writer was trying to sell a producer his screen treatment of "The Last Days of Pompeii."

"What did he die of?" asked the producer.

Alice Faye has already made her new year resolutions. The chief one—"I'm never going to any of my previews. I can stand the anguish." She put the rule into effect a little ahead of time—and stayed away from "Tin Pan Alley." This is the first time Alice has refrained from being "among those present." She made a mistake in not going. She and Betty Grable are co-starred. But as far as this writer is concerned, there was only Alice in the picture. Betty is pretty enough, but will have to lose a disagreeable expression and a hardness of personality if she wants to remain in the big-movie time.

Designing Is Interesting Career

Always a fascinating field, dress designing. Now, since America is becoming the new style leader, it is an expanding field, with many chances for women with a knack for clothes.

Turning this knack to professional uses, of course, requires some training, but you can learn much in home study.

Charts and diagrams show you the proportions of the figure, how to flatter it with the right use of curved, perpendicular, horizontal or diagonal lines. Then you learn how to work out your style ideas. One widely used method is first to make sketches and in turn, translate these into patterns.

In making a pattern you first cut from muslin what's called a basic pattern. For a straight-front waist, for instance, fold a piece of muslin lengthwise, then unfold and pin the center crease down the center of your dummy, placing material about four inches above neck line.

Now you start the shaping, but you need work on only one-half your figure, making half a pattern. Slash fabrics at neck, gather up extra fullness with darts. Our diagram shows how to make a dart at the bust. Mark with pencil or tailor's chalk the outlines of neck, shoulder, armhole, sides and waistline and cut.

Then on this basic pattern you mark with colored threads the special style features of your sketch.

Designing clothes for yourself, your friends, you soon develop, are ready for professional work.

Our new 40-page booklet, DRESS DESIGNING FOR A SMART CAREER, gives diagrams, instructions in principles of design, figure drawing and pattern making. Has pointers on fabrics, colors; explains style trends, historic costume periods as style sources. Discusses modern designers; gives advice on job-getting, designing for the stage.

Send 15c in coins for our booklet, DRESS DESIGNING FOR A SMART CAREER, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Urgent Need For Better Nutrition

By Ida Jean Kain

Every expectant mother wants to give her baby the right start in life. And yet the nine months preceding the baby's birth is the most neglected period in his existence.

The urgent need for better nutrition during pregnancy and lactation and the importance of a wider knowledge of nutritional needs at these periods were stressed by Mrs. Bertha S. Burke, of the Harvard school of public health, in a recent address to the American Dietetic Association.

While pregnancy and the nursing period are considered normal physiological states, an increased nutritional demand is made upon the mother during these periods and this demand must be met by the mother's diet. The perfect diet for the expectant mother must supply daily at least one quart of milk; liberal amounts of other protein-rich foods, such as meat, eggs and cheese; eight ounces of orange juice or its equivalent; liberal amounts of other fruits with the emphasis on such dried fruits as apricots; abundant quantities of leafy, green and yellow vegetables, and other vegetables, including potatoes. Whole grain bread and cereal should certainly replace white cereal in these periods. The use of molasses in place of white sugar is also urged for its iron and calcium content and because it is often less disturbing to the digestive tract.

For the construction of new body tissue, the expectant mother is advised to have 100 grams of protein daily. This is furnished in lean meat, eggs, cheese, and a quart of whole milk. A diet high in protein during the latter part of pregnancy helps to insure an adequate supply of breast milk.

The increased need for calcium is also stressed. The generally accepted calcium requirement of 1.5 grams daily in pregnancy makes the inclusion of one quart of milk in the diet during this period a very important factor of safety. Mrs. Burke stated that in a study of 100 cases, it was found that one-half of the expectant mothers were following diets poor in calcium, while less than one-fifth met the optimal requirement. Poor teeth in the children is one of the most striking results of a calcium deficiency.

Mrs. Burke stated that in a study of 100 cases, it was found that one-half of the expectant mothers were following diets poor in calcium, while less than one-fifth met the optimal requirement. Poor teeth in the children is one of the most striking results of a calcium deficiency.

While pregnancy and the nursing period are considered normal physiological states, an increased nutritional demand is made upon the mother during these periods and this demand must be met by the mother's diet. The perfect diet for the expectant mother must supply daily at least one quart of milk; liberal amounts of other protein-rich foods, such as meat, eggs and cheese; eight ounces of orange juice or its equivalent; liberal amounts of other fruits with the emphasis on such dried fruits as apricots; abundant quantities of leafy, green and yellow vegetables, and other vegetables, including potatoes. Whole grain bread and cereal should certainly replace white cereal in these periods. The use of molasses in place of white sugar is also urged for its iron and calcium content and because it is often less disturbing to the digestive tract.

For the construction of new body tissue, the expectant mother is advised to have 100 grams of protein daily. This is furnished in lean meat, eggs, cheese, and a quart of whole milk. A diet high in protein during the latter part of pregnancy helps to insure an adequate supply of breast milk.

The increased need for calcium is also stressed. The generally accepted calcium requirement of 1.5 grams daily in pregnancy makes the inclusion of one quart of milk in the diet during this period a very important factor of safety. Mrs. Burke stated that in a study of 100 cases, it was found that one-half of the expectant mothers were following diets poor in calcium, while less than one-fifth met the optimal requirement. Further study showed the mothers of children with good teeth to have followed a diet high in calcium.

Nor can the importance of iron in the diet at this time be overestimated. Best sources are beef and calves' liver, pork liver, lean meat, egg yolks, greens and whole grains.

For an optimum intake of vitamins the expectant mother is urged to take cod liver oil as well as adequate amounts of fruits, fruit juices, fresh vegetables, whole grains and dairy products.

POINTS FOR PARENTS

By Edyth Thomas Wallace.

Mother: "Let's play a music game. I'll sing a note and then you sing it after me."

The parents' part is to correct a condition, not to label a child.

Mother: "Jim is a monotone. Isn't it strange, in our musical family?"

The parents' part is to correct a condition, not to label a child.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What is the best way to bleach yellowed linens?

A. They may often be bleached satisfactorily by moistening them and spreading them on the grass in the sun. Another method is to soak them in a solution of one pint of hydrogen peroxide to a gallon of water.

Q. What is a steak meter?

A. An instrument that indicates the exact time needed for broiling a rare, medium or well-done steak. First, the thickness of the steak is measured and then a metal gadget indicates the distance the steak should be placed from the flame, and the time for broiling.

Q. Will one be warmer, if he wears thick clothing or several layers of thin clothing?

A. Several layers of thin clothing are warmer than one layer of thick clothing, because the air between the layers forms a non-conductor of heat and helps to keep the body warm.

Atlantans To Charter Coach To Attend Game in Athens

WHEN THE VARSITY TEAMS of Tech and Georgia clash at Sanford Field in Athens on Saturday, Atlanta, as usual, will be well represented among the throng of excited spectators. The close rivalry between the two outstanding southern football teams always assures the crowd a thrilling time, and Saturday's game will be no exception. One of the largest Atlanta groups to witness the colorful spectacle will include 25 socialites who have chartered an observation coach to transport them to Athens. The coach is indeed special, for it will feature, in addition to a bar, the syncopated music of Graham Jackson at the piano.

The group includes: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hill, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Smith Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Chambers, Mr. and Mrs. Roby Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Ridley, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip H. Alston Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William S. Woods, Dr. and Mrs. Fredric R. Minnich, Mrs. Octavia Riley Boland, Miss Nancy Calhoun, Frank O. O'Neill, J. L. Riley and James G. Kennan.

The train leaves Atlanta at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and will reach Athens in time for passengers to enjoy luncheon before the kickoff. Supporters of both Tech and Georgia are numbered among the group, who will return to this city late in the afternoon.

Many festivities have been planned in the college town to accompany the outstanding gridiron conflict of the season, among these to be the dance to be given in Woodruff Hall Saturday evening. Needless to say, no accommodations are available at local hotels and fraternity houses.

WHEN PAUL AND Emme Reese celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last evening, one of the most prized gifts they received was a handsome silver pitcher, with matching goblets and tray, which was presented by Emmie's parents, Mrs. B. L. Willingham and the late Mr. Willingham, on the occasion of their wedding. The valuable heirloom silver was originally a gift from Emmie's grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Willingham.

The celebration took the form of an informal reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Carmichael on Piedmont avenue, where the Reeses were married 25 years ago. The guests included only the relatives of the popular couple, who were assisted in entertaining by their mother, Mrs. B. L. Willingham, and the members of their wedding party including, Mrs. Homer Carmichael, Mrs. W. Anderson, Marjorie Carmichael, Mrs. Edgar Dunlap, Mrs. Clebourne Wilson and Mrs. Lamar Springer.

Decorations for the party featured the silver motif, with gardenias and valley lilies arranged in a silver bowl forming the centerpiece of the table in the dining room. Tall silver tapers in silver holders and silver compotes of silver-wrapped minis completed the appointments. Given as favors to members of the wedding party of 25 years ago were miniature silver slippers caught with sprays of valley lilies and filled with candles. A trio of the hosts' young cousins, Edith Willingham, Anne Ragan, and Catherine Willingham, served punch from silver bowls embedded in white chrysanthemums and roses.

A novel feature of the decorations was the beautifully embossed wedding cake, which proved a grand surprise to the guests. For, believe it or not, when the cake was cut, the strains of the wedding march issued therefrom!

Mrs. Reese, who was before her marriage Emme Willingham, wore for her silver wedding a charming gown of white tulle encrusted with silver sequins.

LUSTRE CHINA of Colonial America will form the interesting theme of the exhibit to be held Thursday at the handsome home of Mrs. Bolling Jones Jr., on Pace's Ferry road. The affair will be under the sponsorship of the Primrose Garden Club and the group of prominent matrons composing the membership of the organization have issued invitations to other garden clubs composing the Atlanta Flower Show Association.

The china will be displayed on tables which will be decorated by Mrs. Ed Cauthorn, Mrs. Edwin Lochridge and Mrs. George Campbell. The china to be used was recently brought from Virginia by Mrs. Morgan McNeil Jr., and is a beautiful and interesting collection.

Included in the collection are handsome pieces which are copies of the dinner set recently presented to Queen Elizabeth and King George of England by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. In the collection is also a copy of the Pocahontas pitcher which the First Lady gave to little Princess Elizabeth. Calling hours will be between 10 and 12 o'clock and 3 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Radiance Garden Club

Mrs. C. T. Greer and Mrs. Roy Gatchell Jr. entertained the Radiance Garden Club recently at the home of the former on Page avenue. Mrs. T. F. Hemminger presided.

Mr. Charles Hudson Jr. talked on "Bulbs," and members made a generous contribution for the jelly shower at Grady hospital.

Mrs. J. E. Biggs will make the Christmas decorations for the December meeting.

Final of Party Series Fetes Miss Poole and Dr. Fleming

The brilliant series of parties honoring Miss Patrice Poole and Dr. Dell Fleming were climaxed last evening when the popular young couple were complimented following their wedding rehearsal at the First Presbyterian church.

Hosts were Dr. and Mrs. Troy Bivings Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Michael, of Daytona, Fla., who entertained at a buffet supper at the Piedmont Driving Club. Supper was served in the dining room, where members of the wedding party, out-of-town guests and members of the two families assembled.

The long buffet table was centered with an antique silver soup tureen filled with beautiful white flowers including roses, lilies and gladioli and narcissi. Blush pink carnations arranged in the center of the floral arrangement formed a dainty focal point in the design. On either side of the centerpiece were five-branched cathedral candelabra. Throughout the room and on the mantel were artistic arrangements of white carnations.

During the evening music was presented by Graham Jackson and the hosts were assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. George Woodruff, of Daytona, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde King Jr. and Clyde L. King.

Lookout Club To Know Fate On Wednesday

Engel Calls Meeting To Decide Whether Team Can Operate.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 25.—(P)—The fate of the fan-owned Chattanooga Baseball Club, of the Southern Association, beset by financial troubles, probably will be decided at a meeting of the club directors Wednesday.

President Joe Engel said today the meeting had been called to decide whether the club can operate next season. The club is without operating revenue and owes the Washington Senators $40,000 of a $60,000 mortgage given three years ago at the time of purchase. Engel said recently he would not lead a campaign locally to raise $20,000 he estimated would be needed to operate next season. He said unless the money was provided the club probably would be returned to Washington.

A meeting of stockholders is expected to be held several days after the directors reach their decision.

Boys' Club Boxers Fight at 'Y' Friday

The Y. M. C. A. boxing team will meet the strong Washington Street Boys' Club Friday night at the "Y."

There will be at least ten bouts, featuring such boys as Bill Findley, who has been challenged several times by Lonnie Clark, the pride of the Boys' Club.

Ken Flager will box Joe Love, Earl Dixon will probably be matched with some one. The other boys are George Ferguson, Sommers Jones, Jack Caldwell, Paul Hitchcock, Robert Hogue, Bobby O'Quinn, Paul Robinson, Alvin Wilkie, Ed Johnson, Bob Spain, Roland Lee, J. D. Vaughn, Howard Carr and Jasper Golden. All boys will be matched at the dressing room. Boys wishing to fight should get in touch with Tommy Phillips, the Y. M. C. A. boxing coach.

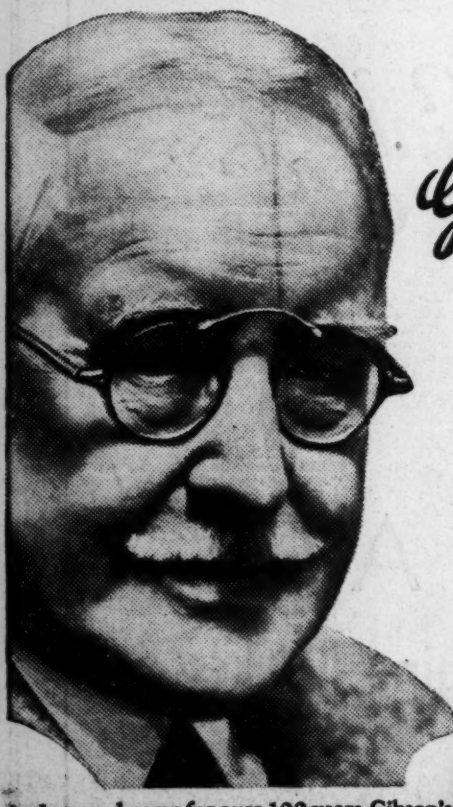

Orengo Purchased By Giant Outfit

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The New York Giants announced today the acquisition of infielder Joe Orengo from the St. Louis Cardinals for two players to be named later and an undisclosed sum of cash.

Orengo, who came up from Sacramento as a shortstop, played most of his 124 games last season at third base where the Giants are expected to use him. He batted .267 and drove in 53 runs. He'll be 24 years old Friday.

Grimm Returns As Cub Coach

CHICAGO, Nov. 25.—(P)—Charlie Grimm, former manager of the team, signed as a coach with the Chicago Cubs today. The Cub general manager, James Gallagher, said Grimm came to terms after talking with the Cub manager, Jimmy Wilson. Grimm was replaced as Cub pilot in July, 1938, when Gabby Hartnett took charge. Wilson, who succeeded Hartnett recently, already had selected Dick Spalding, of Philadelphia, as one of his two-member coaching staff.

Meagher Visits Speaking of the injury angle in modern football and how important the loss of one or two key men is, Coach Jack Meagher, of Auburn, appearing at the Atlanta Touchdown Club, said it wouldn't surprise him if L. S. U. should beat Tulane Saturday.

L. S. U., which had fine possibilities at the start of the season, was hurt badly by injuries. Coach Meagher thinks that the Bayou Bengals will be really tough with all the good men back.

Meagher gave another example of the effect injuries have. He made reference to the Georgia Tech team. He virtually skipped over his own Auburn team, which has been crippled as severely as any major team in the country.

Coach Meagher, who has a strong sentimental side, told the Touchdown Club that he got one of the greatest kicks of his 20-year coaching career following the worst defeat of his career at Boston.

"Half a dozen kids met me as I left the bench and said they wanted my autograph. Deep down I felt awfully good about those kids. They weren't thinking about the winning or losing. They wanted the autograph of the losing coach. It made me feel they were the best bunch of kids I'd ever known because naturally I was pretty low," Meagher said.

The popular Auburn coach remained in Atlanta while his team continued home to appear as guest speaker at the Touchdown Club.

An Idea Meagher said he had a lot of sympathy for football officials, who have been in for a lot of criticism during the season.

Half in jest and half in serious vein, Meagher advanced the idea that a fifth official, sitting in the stands, might solve a lot of things.

He pointed out that many flagrant rule violations which are plainly evident from the stands are missed on the field of play. This is obvious. Anyone sitting high up is bound to see more than a person close at hand. There is such a greater perspective.

Meagher didn't dwell on the idea. He didn't advance any plan as to how it could be worked. Maybe he had in mind having an official with access to a field telephone.

The telephone idea is an old one in coaching. One of the coaches, or maybe two, will sit in a booth above the stands and phone down observations to the bench.

Maybe it wouldn't work in officiating, but it certainly doesn't do any harm in coaching. Tennessee, for instance, uses the telephone system.

Major Bill Britton does the spotting.

Nice Fellows It may be that officials are being taken to task too readily and too severely in a season that has wrought acrimony on many sides because of unexpected events.

After all, an official in nine cases out of 10—or maybe in all 10 cases—is a reputable person who is working football games largely because of a liking for the game. He does not depend on officiating for a livelihood. In many cases he will be a man who has a very fine business.

I do not know why I have taken up a cudgel in behalf of the brothers in the whistle-blowing profession, unless it be the influence of the sentimental gentleman from the south side of Chicago—Jack Meagher, the little Marine whose teams, win or lose, always are inspiring to watch in each tough game of every season.

Records Useless In any old rivalry, comparative scores don't mean a thing. Such is the case when Tech and Georgia meet. Anyone who has followed the series closely realizes that.

Form might just as well be tossed out of the window because, as past events have shown, anything can happen.

It takes no urging on the part of coaches to steam up the boys where the fires of old rivalries have been kept burning through the years.

Florida Gives Its Grid Team Fine Welcome

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 25.—(P)—University of Florida football players received a heroes' welcome as they returned home yesterday from Atlanta, where they upset Georgia Tech, 16 to 7, Saturday.

More than a thousand students and townspeople lined West Main street on both sides of the railroad track to cheer the returning squad.

Coach Tom Lieb and End John Piombo, master mind and spark-plug, respectively, of the Atlanta performance, were paged by the gleeful students but had stopped off in Jacksonville.

The Gators emerged from the grueling battle with no injuries of any consequence. Bill Robinson, center, who has been bothered with a knee injury, aggravated the ailment after the game when he slipped and fell while entering a taxicab.

Lieb summoned the squad to meet early tomorrow afternoon for a scouting report on Auburn, the Gators' next opponent. However, players who participated in the Tech game will be given a day off from practice.

The team will have only three days to practice before departing for Columbus, Ga., where they meet Auburn Saturday.

Saturday's victory gave the Gators the first clean sweep over both Georgia and Georgia Tech in the university's football history. It brought the team's record to date up to four victories against three defeats, and drew praise from fans throughout the state who hailed the team as the best Gator outfit in a decade.

S. E. C. Colleges Will Cooperate, Connor Insists

New Czar Awaits Rush of Prep Stars With Confidence.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Nov. 25.—(P)—The new czar of the much-criticized Southeastern Conference completed his first tour of his bailiwick here yesterday and declared all his charges had promised to be good boys during the coming recruiting season.

He emphasized he was not implying any had been bad boys, but he did make it clear there would be no "expense money" and jobs for "brother-in-law" offered high school stars.

Martin Sennett "Mike" Connor, named commissioner of the league this year following a wave of criticism of the conference athletic policy from other sections, said he had received assurances from all coaches, athletic directors and college presidents that nothing except "legal" scholarships would be offered.

CO-OPERATION. "They'll be going after the high school seniors after Christmas," he said, "but I am convinced that athletic authorities of all 13 institutions are going to co-operate wholeheartedly to observe the rule."

"I was gratified by the interest of the presidents. The fact they're giving personal attention to this matter assures success." The commissioner is scheduled to meet with coaches and athletic directors of all member schools in Athens, Ga., December 12, on the eve of the conference's annual meeting. At that time the officials will have promised the commissioner to toe the line as expected to join in a "gentlemen's agreement" with each other.

Commissioner Connor said the schools would have to "resort to presentation of the educational advantages of the institutions they represent—which means these boys will realize football may be a means to securing an education, but it is in no sense an end."

MAY HAVE JOBS. The conference allows athletic scholarships, which include tuition, board and room, books, medical attention and laundry. The player may have a legitimate job paying no more than $10 per month at the prevailing wage scale for his kind of work. If he earns more, he must use the difference to defray part of his other expenses.

"Well-wishing alumni may contribute to the athletic fund," Connor said, "but they must not give any direct help or the recipient will be disqualified. We want to emphasize the fact that every dollar spent on athletics must go through the legitimate channels." So the scouts will be saying, "Now, we have a course in philosophy that any tackle would be proud to take."

Death Robs Sub Of Football Letter

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 25.—(P)—Edward Rachinsky, 17, won't realize his greatest ambition—to play in the traditional West Hazleton-McAdoo High school football game Thursday.

The substitute halfback, who needed but one more period of play to earn his letter, died in a hospital here Saturday night of a fractured back and neck, suffered Friday during scrimmage.

World's Duckpin March Is Claimed

WESTERLY, R. I., Nov. 25.—(P)—The Westerly Majestics claimed an unofficial world record for five-man duckpin bowling scoring today as the result of their 2,124 mark set Saturday night in an Eastern Connecticut-Western Rhode Island League match.

The record will not be recognized as official because the match was rolled on the Majestic alleys here, which are not sanctioned by the National Bowling Congress.

The official world record of 2,065 was set in 1933 by the Occidental Hotel team of Washington, D. C.

John Walstrum, Athlete, 42, Passes in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 25.—(P)—John A. Walstrum, 42, police department athlete who once raced against a thoroughbred on Pimlico racetrack, died yesterday.

Training for a track meet in 1925, Walstrum ran 50 yards against Sea Crest, losing the first heat to the horse by seven yards, the second by four yards.

Walstrum established a record by tagging 252 cars for overtime parking in 1927.

CULVER, Ind., Nov. 25.—(P)—Lewis W. Eaton, Baton Rouge (La.) end, will captain next year's Culver Military Academy football team. Teammates elected him.

Jackets Lock Gates, Practice Secretly on Muddy Gridiron

Strictly secret practice from which everybody but coaches, players and managers are barred, was put into effect again yesterday at Georgia Tech where the Jackets started work for their game with Georgia in Athens Saturday.

Behind locked gates and on a muddy field, Tech's varsity took a light workout in sweat clothes.

The Jackets are in the best condition of the season. Jim Wright, regular center who didn't play against Florida Saturday, will be ready for the Bulldog battle.

Two scrimmages are slated this week for the Jackets. The second and third teams will be put through the paces today with the regulars getting their tomorrow.

Sinkwich All Set; Bulldogs May Use Three Distinct Backfield Combinations Against Tech.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 25.—Georgia sloshed through the rain and mud this afternoon in an hour and a half workout in preparation for Saturday's game with Georgia Tech in Sanford stadium, but Coach Wallace Butts abandoned plans for a scrimmage against the Red Devils.

Ison, Poschner Rated Among Best in S. E. C.

Bulldog Coaches Claim Soph Star Best Flankman in South.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Two of the best ends in the Southeastern Conference will be in action on the same field Saturday when Tech and Georgia meet in their traditional battle at Athens.

One is a senior, almost certain to be placed on every all-conference and some all-American teams. He is Robert Ison, Georgia Tech's sterling left flankman who first gained fame last season carrying the ball on end arounds and added to it this season with great defensive work and gallant pass receiving on a losing ball club.

Even in Tech's overwhelming defeats at the hands of Duke and Notre Dame, the husky Atlanta boy played great ball.

"UNKNOWN" SOPH. The other is also a left end. But he is an unknown sophomore, also playing on a losing ball club. His chances of making any all-star selections are about as good as his team's are going to the Rose Bowl.

But his coaches will tell you, if they know you well enough, that George Poschner is the best end in the south without exception.

Especially do the Georgia scouts praise the hard-working kid who was third-string on the freshman team last year. Elmer Lampe, Bill Hartman, Spec Towns and Howell Hollis have scouted a lot of games this fall and seen a lot of good ends play but they all say Poschner is the best they've seen.

LOTS OF GOOD ENDS. That takes in a lot of territory considering the fact they have watched lads like Mississippi State's Buddy Elrod, Tech's Ison and Webb, Alabama's Rast and Newman, and Florida's Piombo and Ferguson.

Ison will be playing his last game against Georgia and his next to last for Tech. Poschner has plenty of time to gather his honors.

It will be interesting to watch what each does in the game which always brings out the best in every player on both teams.

Austin, Texas, Jinxes Aggies; Pugh Is Ailing

A.&M. Has Beaten Longhorns There Only 3 Times Since 1894.

DALLAS, Nov. 25.—(P)—Three times since 1894—back in 1902, '09 and '22—the Texas Aggies have been able to win a football game against University of Texas on an Austin gridiron.

Now, only four days before they face the jinx again with such rich rewards as a second straight Southwest Conference title and unbeaten season, a 20th straight triumph and a possible beckon to the Rose Bowl lying around, they are in trouble.

Quarterback Marion Pugh, the Aggies' leading runner and passer and signal caller, is ailing.

The rangy Fort Worth boy has a very stubborn "charley horse" that developed a few hours after the Rice Institute game on November 16, and he can't shake it. Pugh spent the weekend in a Houston hospital receiving treatment.

PUGH WILL PLAY.
Advices from College Station said that he had practiced only briefly the past week, "but probably will be able to start the Texas game." Brains of the Aggie attack, Pugh also rates as one of the country's top forward passers, with 49 completions out of 84 attempts for 651 yards.

Pugh declares he will be ready. "The only way they'll keep me out of the line-up is to have me on crutches," he says.

Rugged Marland Jeffrey, the boy who almost completed a 60-yard pass in the Rice game and a great pitcher himself, will be ready if Pugh falls out of the Texas game.

Texas had no major injuries and Cowboy Jack Crain, their feared broken fielder, was back in top form after wrestling a bothersome hurt for three weeks.

HECK WITH JINK.

On form, the Aggies rate a win, regardless of all jinxes traditions. Statistics through eight games prove it. Here they are:

First downs	Aggies	Tex.
Net gains rushing	1,256	1,178
Net gains running and passing	2,225	2,108
Net gains passing	969	939
Passes attempted	140	156
Passes completed	71	75
Percentage completed	50.7	48.1
Punting average	37	37

Most important, with Texas developing a swell running game of late, is the defensive record. The Aggies line, rated the best in the nation against rushing, has yielded only 298 yards in eight games. The Texas wall has given up 875.

Not listed in the statistics is that jinx—and Texas has a gaudy advantage there.

Aggies 'Mark' Crain In Thursday Game.

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 25.—(P)—Cowboy Jack Crain hasn't rocked the countryside with a headline explosion in a month now—and the Texas Aggies are worried about the whole thing.

The stumpy, bass-voiced west Texan, the sophomore of 1939 whose bowlegs swept to eight touchdowns for an average of 56 yards on each run, will be ready Thursday at Austin when the mighty Texas Aggies face University of Texas.

True it is that Crain has not been hogging the headlines of late. But those who have followed him closely, even while he was playing with a badly bruised hip and shoulder, Jack Crain has been playing good football.

He has carried the ball 69 times for 349 yards and an average of 3.55 yards. He leads his team in pass interceptions—six for a total yardage on returns of 147 yards. He has a swell punting average of 37.87 yards. And he has scored 23 points.

But behind those cold figures, there is another story. The old, old story.

The Cowboy is marked—plenty. He might as well be wearing a flaming red shirt.

Quite gracefully Crain has taken on the "Mr. X" burden and has been doing quite a lot of team playing while the enemy was dogging him.

When Jack Crain takes a sweep, Fullback Pete Layden or some other trusty back, usually shoots through gaping tackle holes for good gains.

Sugar Bowl 'Mile' Draws Fast Field

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—(P) Fans looking for split-second finishes will be offered "the mile of the century" at the Sugar Bowl track classic here December 29 (Sunday) in City Park stadium. Glenn Cunningham's record of 4:10.7 set in 1938, will be in jeopardy as the following fast field competes:

Walter Mehl, formerly Wisconsin, National A. A. U. champion; John Munske, formerly University of Missouri, National Collegiate champion; Charlie Fenske, formerly of Wisconsin, National A. A. U. indoor champion; Phil Leibowitz, University of Idaho, Pacific Coast champion; Carroll Baggett, Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette, Southern A. A. U. champion and also titleholder in the S. I. A. A. and L. I. A.

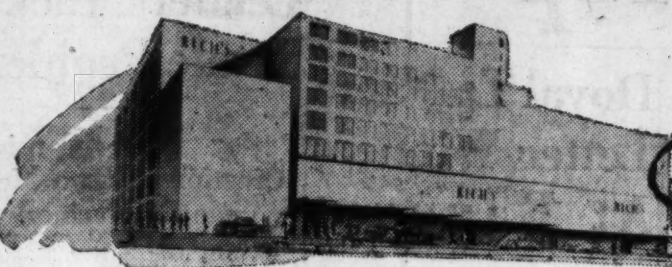

National Cross-Country Title Captured by Dodds

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 25 (P)—Gilbert Dodds, of Ashland College, won the national collegiate cross-country championship here today, finishing in 20:30.2 ahead of 89 other runners from 22 schools.

The time beat the meet and course record of 20:30.9 set in the second year of the annual race last year by Walter Mehl, Wisconsin.

Behind Dodds more than 50 yards were Oliver Hunter, Notre Dame, second, and Tom Fields, Maryland, third. Then came Bob Nichols, Rhode Island State, fourth; Wayne Toliver, Indiana, fifth; Tom Quinn, Michigan Normal, sixth; Bill Smith, Penn State, seventh; Phil Leibowitz, Idaho, eighth; Earl Mitchell, Butler, ninth; Duane Zemper, Michigan Normal, tenth.

Aggies, Stanford Can Clinch Crown by Beating Texas, California

By JACK CUDDY.
NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The college football curtain descends this week on a grand finale of four regional battles in which four conference titles and several bowl invitations will be at stake.

This competition will be featured by four standout games: Stanford-California, Texas-Aggies, Mississippi State-Alabama and Army-Navy.

INDIANS VS. BEARS.

However, there's plenty of significance in the other three bowl games. Stanford, surprise team of 1940, can clinch definitely the Pacific Coast title and western Rose Bowl bid by beating the improved California Golden Bears in their big game at Berkeley.

Such a victory would give perfect record Stanford seven straight conference victories this season, against six wins and one defeat for runner-up Washington, even if Washington downs Washington State Saturday.

Hence no conference balloting would be needed to settle a title tie. The Berkeley brawl should be a pipper.

N. G. I. C. CHAMPIONS—North Fulton last week completed their second straight undefeated season and annexed their second successive N. G. I. C. championship. The squad, left to right, front row, Harris, J. Coleman, Lynch, Nevitt, Chapman, Slaten, Newton; second row, McIlwain, Bondurant, Cates, Taylor; back row, Tiller, Van Frank, Evans, Keys, Smith, Crawley, Burdett, Dickey, Groves, McMullens, Stewart, Pope, Martin, Saine, Emerson, L. Coleman, Withers, Brewer, Hendricks. The Bulldogs have a string of 22 victories.

Horn in Tide-Vandy Game Provokes Rap at Referee

Ervin Admits to Freddie Russell That He Blew Horn Instead of Customary Whistle.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Lou Ervin, referee of the Alabama-Vanderbilt football game here last Saturday, said today controversy over one of his decisions in the contest arose because he "treated the horn as a foul-signal only and not as a ball-killing signal."

Freddie Russell, sports editor of the Nashville Banner, declared Ervin's decision paved the way for the play.

On the play in question, Ervin sounded his horn when Vanderbilt took excessive time in putting the ball in play from the Vandy 20-yard line, instead of using his whistle which would have halted play immediately.

The horn merely indicated a foul had been committed, without halting play.

Jimmy Nelson of Alabama intercepted a subsequent Vanderbilt pass and returned it to Vandy's 44-yard line. Three plays later the Crimson scored their first touchdown.

"If my using the horn instead of the whistle may be considered an error," said Ervin, a football official for 20 years, "I am willing to admit the mistake. I customarily use the whistle."

"I treated the horn as a foul-signal only and not as a ball-killing signal. Immediately I decided to let the play go and not kill the ball."

Russell quoted Arthur M. Hutchens, commissioner of the Southern Football Officials Association, as saying in a telephone conversation from Lake Wales, Florida:

"It isn't the sound of a whistle which makes the ball dead. It is the decision within the mind of the referee. If he makes a mistake in blowing the wrong instrument, or if the whistle should go bad or if he should lose the whistle, he can call the ball dead any way he wants to."

Russell contended the ball should have been declared dead because Ervin's intent was to blow his whistle instead of his horn.

This ruling would have returned the ball to Vanderbilt with a 5-yard penalty. Instead Alabama gained the ball on the Vandy 14-yard line and later scored.

YALE CAPTAIN.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Yale football letterman tonight unanimously elected Alan E. Bartholemey, of Portland, Ore., an end, as next season's captain. He succeeds Harold B. Whitman Jr., of Nashville, Tenn.

Big Six crown if it beats Kansas State Saturday. Meanwhile, Colorado State invades Kansas on Thursday, as Tulsa tangles with Arkansas.

Competition is finished in the midwestern Big Ten and in the mountain Big Seven conferences and most of the eastern Ivy League have completed their seasons.

Texas Aggies Heavy Choice In Sugar Bowl

Tennessee Second, B. C. Third in 'Straw' Vote.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Texas A. and M. is the overwhelming favorite of the Monday Quarterbacks Club, which contains most members of the Sugar Bowl executive committee, as a participant in the Sugar Bowl game here January 1. Tennessee rates second and Boston College third.

The voting at today's luncheon had no official connection with the Sugar Bowl, it was announced, and any committee members who voted did so merely as individuals.

Club members were asked to select the game they would rather see, naming both teams and giving first and second choices. The Aggies were named as a first-choice participant on 56 of the 58 ballots cast, with Tennessee given as the opponent 34 times, Boston College 11, Michigan 7 and Minnesota 4.

North Scores Over South In All-Star Player Debate

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 25.

Mayor W. A. Gunter, president of the Blue and Gray Association, ruled today that Coaches Carl Snavely, of Cornell, and Lynn Waldorf, of Northwestern, could sign the Georgetown youths to compete with the Blues.

Coaches of both the "Blues" and the "Grays," who will tangle in Montgomery's annual all-star game December 28, wanted Augie Lio, a 200-pound guard, and Earl Fullilove, a 205-pound tackle, off the Georgetown team. Each side claimed the district was in its territory.

As "a gesture of sportsmanship," Mayor W. A. Gunter, president of the Blue and Gray Association, ruled today that Coaches Carl Snavely, of Cornell, and Lynn Waldorf, of Northwestern, could sign the Georgetown youths to compete with the Blues.

Latin American Leaders Tackle Trial Enters Fourth Week

Parley Will Consider Creation of Own Mercantile Marines.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The primary problem of the Americas with their shared privileges and responsibilities of control over more than 30,000 miles of the world's coastlines met for the first time today in joint effort to straighten out their shipping problems.

Delegates of the 21 American republics were called together by the Inter-American Economic and Financial Advisory Committee to discuss an agenda ranging from the effects of war dislocation on their maritime commerce to the more far-reaching question of how to deal with hemisphere shipping problems in the future.

The primary problem as far as most of the Latin-American delegates was concerned was to start a train of thought which would lead to establishment of their own mercantile marines.

Delegates from Argentina, Brazil, Cuba, Venezuela, Chile, and other Latin-American nations have seen the stultification of their commerce aided by the fact that they have no ships of their own to replace those furnished under pre-war conditions by England, Holland, Germany and the Scandinavian countries to haul their products to market either in this or the old world.

Watson contradicted earlier testimony of W. L. Miller, chairman of the board, who told United States Attorney Lawrence Camp that in his opinion it was the board's custom to leave wardens' houses standing when highway camps were abandoned.

Watson said that in answer to a question he (Miller) put regarding the board's practice, tearing down the camps after nearby projects were finished was "What we've been doing."

The state, Watson stated, was not defrauded by Glover's building instances in our administration and previous administrations, the policy is to remove houses that were constructed. There have been exceptions," he added, "where buildings were left as part payment for land use."

Other witnesses included Sam Boykin, secretary-treasurer of the board, and Judge Robert Carpenter of the civil court of Fulton county.

Lafayette 'Wants' Orange Bowl Trip

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The entire student body of Lafayette College paraded through downtown Easton tonight, shouting "We want the Orange Bowl game."

The undefeated and untied Leopards have received a "feeler" bid from the Orange Bowl schedule committee.

Members of the team were carried through the streets on the shoulders of the students.

Captain Sammy Moyer, star halfback, promised the students in a brief speech "to take Alabama, Tennessee or anybody else they pick out for us."

Cards and Pirates Cooking Up Deal

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, conferred for two hours here today with President William E. Benswanger and Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Rickey indicated that the meeting concerned a probable player deal, but added nothing definite would be decided until the men confer again at the annual minor league meeting at Atlanta, Ga., next month.

Four-Square Winner Over Evening School

The Four-Square Class last night halted the fast Evening College basketball, 43-36, on the Y. W. C. A. floor. M. McDaniel paced the scoring for the winners with 13 points. McKinney had 11 and Teagle registered 11 for the Collegians.

Harmon Wins Maxwell Trophy

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Tommy Harmon, Michigan's great halfback, was chosen by the Maxwell Memorial Club today as the nation's No. 1 football player for 1940.

He will receive the award at the club's annual dinner here on December 17.

Nile Kinnick, of Iowa, received the award last year. Davey O'Brien, of Texas Christian, was honored in 1938 and Clint Frank, of Yale, in 1937.

STAR STRUCK

By SYLVIA TAYLOR

Mark Follows Glory To Tell Her Honey Newton Was Referring to His Father.

SYNOPSIS. Tearing off her wedding gown and leaving Arthur Landis waiting at the church, Glory Stevens takes a train for Los Angeles, on which she meets Helen Jamison, a Hollywood character actress. Since she was a little girl Glory had wanted to be an actress like her mother, who died when Glory was 13. Helen advises her to return home, then, calling herself a fool, gets her a small apartment near the studio, and when her money is gone, Helen suggests to Scottie Weston, her own agent, that he discourage Glory and send her home. Instead he gets her a job in Sunset studio's wardrobe department, but the first day a pin in a jacket sleeve scratches Mona Greer, and that temperamental star has her discharged. Scottie sends Glory to dramatic school and takes her to the important night spots, where she attracts much attention wearing gowns by William Van Lingham, Sunset's chief designer. Mark Spencer, Scottie's handsome young lawyer, is with Glory constantly now. Allan Rhodes, popular movie lover, plays with Glory in her screen test and they fall in love. Glory, playing her second small part in a picture, is distracted when he disappears. Returning, he says he went to Mexico to tell Mona he loves her, and gives Glory an engagement ring. Although co-starred with Allan, Glory spurs his attempts at reconciliation, realizing now she loves Mark. She finds Allan, who has been drinking heavily, shot to death on her dressing room floor. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

INSTALLMENT XXXI. "All right, Miss Newton. Who is your mysterious friend? What is his name?" "I can't tell you that," Honey replied in a low voice. "Listen, lady! You'll tell me or you're going to be charged with the murder of Allan Rhodes. Do you expect me to take your word for this Allan Rhodes didn't pay for this fancy apartment? If he didn't, who did? And if you didn't shoot him, you'll have to prove it by telling who this mystery guy is who was with you at the time of the murder."

Honey was silent. "All right!" The detective shrugged. "You can think it over in jail." Honey rose. "No! No! I'll tell you!" She turned to Mark Spencer with a shrug of defeat. "It's Mr. Spencer," she said. Without waiting to hear more, Glory turned and ran from the room. Tears were streaming down her face, but she did not heed the curious stares of people in the outer office. Sooner or later the street, climbed into her car and headed for home. Mark and Honey Newton! How could he? Mark whom she loved and trusted more than any one else in the world! She had thought Allan Rhodes cheap. But Mark had been having an affair more than any of Allan's, with the most notorious woman in town.

"Everything's a fake in this place!" Glory thought bitterly. "Why did I ever come to Hollywood? Why? Why?" As she parked her car, a taxi drove up behind her. From it stepped Helen and Scottie. They followed her into the elevator and to her apartment.

She faced them stormily. "Well?" "We left, too," Scottie announced. "Probably just as well for us to get out of here," Helen added. "Mark and Honey must have plenty to say to each other."

"I've got to get away!" Glory cried desperately. "I can't stay here another minute!" Scottie put an arm about her. "Okay, baby, I know just the place. I have a cabin up in the mountains. You and Helen can go and stay as long as you like. I'll drive you up there myself."

"Oh Scottie, that would be wonderful! When can we leave?" "Right away! I'll go home and get my bag. You girls pack and I'll pick you up in my car in about half an hour."

Mechanically Glory packed. The phone rang but she did not answer it. And in half an hour Scottie arrived and they were on their way.

After dinner, Helen went to bed, pleading a headache, and left Glory and Scottie sitting before the blazing fire.

"It was nice of you to come with us," said Glory, "but you didn't have to, Scottie. I would have been all right."

"A long time ago," Scottie said, "I made up my mind that I was going to be around whenever you needed me, and here I am."

Glory patted his arm. "You've been a wonderful friend."

There was a silence, and then he said, "Why don't you marry me, Glory? You must know I'm in love with you . . . have been all along."

She turned to him in surprise. "Oh, Scottie, no. . . I didn't know . . . honestly I didn't!"

His blue eyes were shining. "Well, you know now . . . how about it?"

For a moment Glory did not reply. Dear, kind Scottie, how loyal he had been, how patient, how true!

But she shook her head. "You're the best friend I have," she said, "but I just don't love you, Scottie. It wouldn't be fair to marry you unless I did."

Glory sat thoughtfully in front of the fire. What a wonderful person Scottie Weston was! But no matter what he said, it would not be fair to marry him loving another man. She had done right to refuse.

Suddenly she became conscious that a car was approaching the cabin. A moment later she heard footsteps on the porch.

"Who is it?" she cried, frightened.

Mark Spencer's voice replied, "Is that you, Glory? Let me in!"

For a moment Glory did not move. What could Mark say now that could possibly make any difference? Why had he followed her to the mountains?

"Glory! Let me in!" Mark demanded.

She went to the door and unlocked it.

"Darling," Mark cried, "Why did you run away?"

He led her back to the fireplace. "What do you want?" she asked dully.

"I want to explain about Honey Newton."

"Don't bother!" His face was stern. "You certainly don't trust me much, do you?"

She did not reply. "Glory dear, Honey Newton was not referring to me."

She looked at him sceptically. "She said Mr. Spencer, didn't she?"

"Yes. But she meant my father."

"Your father?" Glory repeated, in shocked tones.

"Yes," Mark said bitterly. "I've known about it for some time."

"Oh, Mark, I'm so sorry."

"It's good, isn't it? My dad, who is considered a snob by most people in Hollywood, who pretends to disapprove of the movies because they are cheap, yet for years has been squandering his money on mink coats and expensive cars for Honey Newton. I've tried to break it up many times, but he wouldn't listen to me."

"Why did she go on working as a manicurist?" she asked.

"That was dad's idea. He thought no one would suspect anything if she continued with her job. Ridiculous, isn't it?"

Poor Mark. She could see how his father's humiliation hurt him. Mark who hated scandal! And now he was forced to see the story of his father's folly spread over all the newspapers.

"May I ask one more question?" Glory said.

"Of course! What is it?"

"Why did you invite me to your house for dinner, knowing that your father disapproved of me? And why were you so upset that night?"

"Glory, can you imagine how I felt, knowing about my father and Honey, and yet forced to listen to his silly objections to you because you were in the movies? Such a hypocrite!"

"Never mind, Mark. I understand."

"I was determined to overcome my silly prejudice, because . . ."

Their eyes met. Glory was afraid to speak.

"Because I love you!" Mark said quietly. "I was going to ask you to marry me that night."

"Mark!"

He held her close in his arms and kissed her.

"For a long time I've wanted to tell you," he said tenderly, "but I had to be sure that you didn't care for Allan."

"Oh, darling," Glory said, "I've been in love with you for so long, but I thought you didn't care."

He kissed the tip of her nose. "Do I look like a man who changes his mind? I've loved you from the first night I met you."

He went back to Hollywood the next morning with Scottie, leaving Helen and Glory alone at the cabin. Time passed pleasantly in the mountains, and Glory's tired soul and body were slowly renewed. A faint glow appeared in the pale cheeks as she lived her daily simple routine—the walk in the morning, naps in the afternoon, plenty of good food and lazy evenings before the fire.

"You look like a new woman," Helen commented one night.

"I feel like one, too," Glory said, stretching luxuriously. "All this seems worlds away from Hollywood."

"And you like that?" Helen laughed.

"I love it," Glory said, smiling. "You'll feel differently after the premiere, Helen said."

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" Glory said crossly. "I do wish every one would stop saying that!"

The next morning a letter arrived from Scottie Weston, telling Glory that the premiere of her new picture would be the following Saturday night.

"You'd better come down a couple of days early," he suggested, "and get some new clothes. This is going to be a big night, Glory! The biggest night in your life!"

It seemed strange to Glory to be back in Hollywood. Her lovely apartment instead of the roughly finished cabin, housecoats in place of sweaters and skirts, and the busy bustle of the city in contrast to the vast mountain silence which had been so soothing to her tired nerves.

"Van Lingham wants you to come to the studio," Scottie informed her. "He's designed a dress for you to wear to the premiere."

Glory laughed. "He'll be horrified when he finds out I've gained 10 pounds."

"You look swell," Scottie said. "I've never seen you look so pretty."

Their eyes met in a flash of understanding. If Glory's refusal to marry him had hurt Scottie, he did not show it. He made it plain that he still meant to be her friend.

"By the way," he said casually, "Mark was called out of town. He said to tell you that he won't be back until Sunday."

"Sunday! You mean he won't be here for the premiere?"

"He doesn't care much for things like that," Scottie reminded her. Continued Tomorrow.

Applicants Swamp Air Unit Chiefs

Interest in the new National Guard observation squadron assigned to Atlanta yesterday resulted in Major George Finch and Adjutant James C. Grizzard being swamped with telephone calls and personal applications. Finch said that only written applications could be handled and that these applications should detail the age, education and experience as a pilot, radioman or mechanic of the applicant.

Major Finch said there are a number of openings in the commissioned ranks and for enlisted personnel, but that the ranks of the squadron will be filled only with applicants of the highest caliber. He may be addressed at the First National Bank building.

William C. O'Kelley—died yesterday at his residence, 420 Orange street, S. W.

He is survived by his wife; a son, Troy O'Kelley; a sister, Mrs. N. W. Slaton, and two brothers, Henry O'Kelley, of Jacksonville, and Anthony O'Kelley, of Walton county. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.
